THE STOLEN VOUCHERS.

Arrest of Three Persons Accused of the Robbery—Affidavits in the Case—Conflict of Jurisdiction Between Magistrates.

A few days since Controller CONNOLLY came into possession of information which induced him to believe beyond a doubt that he had discovered the parties who had made way with the vouchers for enormous expenditures of moneys from the City Treasury, and which it is said directly criminated Mr. WILLIAM M. TWEED. Mr. CONNOLLY at once communicated with Judge BEACH and Mr. SAMUEL G. COURTNEY, his counsel, who called in to their assistance the eminent services of Ex-Judge BARRETT. MARY CONWAY, the former servant in the family of EDWIN M. HAGERTY, the janitor of the new Court-house, it will appear is the person to whom the discovery of the thieves is due. On Wednesday evening Judge BEACH, Mr. COURTWAY and Ex-Judge BARRETT, with MARY CONROY, Watchman MURPHY and Controller CONNOLLY, appeared before Judge LEDWITH and made oath to the statements which will be found below. It will be seen that HAGERTY and his wife discovered that MARY CONWAY was in possession of the secret of their villainy. When this fact became known to HAGERTY, he used the most violent language toward her, threatening to shoot her if she revealed a word about the affair. It is said that purely through sympathy for Mr. CONNOLLY, who had been publicly accused of complicity in the robbery, MARY CONWAY went to the Controller and told all she knew. At 9 o'clock at night the affidavits were laid before Judge LEDWITH, and warrants were at once issued for the arrest of Ex-Councilman EDWIN M. HAGERTY, the janitor of the new Court-house, CHAS. BALCH, Captain of the watchmen employed in the building, and Mrs. CATHERINE HAGERTY, the wife of the janitor. Knowing that if the arrests were made that night the prisoners would be taken before Commissioner BARR, and would probably be discharged, Officer BOWER, to whom the execution of the warrants was entrusted, was instructed not to make the arrests until yesterday morning, when the accused could be brought before Justice LEDWITH. The parties were closely watched, but it is asserted that the detectives of Superintendent KELSO dogged the steps of the officers of Justice LEDWITH'S Court and the gentlemen who had arranged the affair in conjunction with Mr. CONNOLLY, and having gained sufficient information to apprise them of what was going to take place, at once sought to forestall the Controller by making the arrests themselves, which was done at 1½ o'clock on Thursday morning.

Another account says, that MARY CONWAY, after leaving HAGERTY'S family, took board in Washington-street, and being excited over the events she had seen and taken part in, told her landlady the story, reciting all the circumstances of the case. This reached the ears of Capt. CHERRY, of the Twenty-seventh Precinct, who in turn communicated the information to Superintendent KELSO. The Police having been thus put upon the scent, but without a single affidavit to sustain the allegations made, arrested HAGERTY and BALCH on suspicion and conveyed them to the Tombs, in order that they might be arraigned before Judge DOWLING, yesterday morning, with a contingent probability that they would be admitted to bail by that Magistrate. Whichever is the true version, it is nevertheless a significant fact that every movement oft he Controller and his counsel to obtain evidence to convict the guilty parties was closely watched by policemen, and the affidavit of MARY CONWAY shows that she had to give her evidence to Mr. CONNOLLY under threats from influential quarters, and against at least the moral influence of the Police. In fact, it is generally believed that Mr. TWEED felt bound, for his own safety, to protect HAGERTY, and has used the Police force to defeat the ends of justice. It is positively asserted that Superintendent KELSO was in possession of the information criminating HAGERTY and BALCH days ago. It is stated that the Chief of Police entered the Controller's office yesterday morning to interview Mr. CONNOLLY. The Superintendent appeared at 11 o'clock and announced that he had important information for the Controller. "We've got the man who stole the papers," said he. "He's in the Tombs." Controller CONNOLLY asked upon what information the arrest had been made. Superintendent KELSO replied that the information had been obtained from the woman CONWAY, and then proceeded to say that the story she told had got wind during the night and that the arrest had been made under his orders, and wholly upon suspicion, without the issue of any warrants. Mr. CONNOLLY and several members of the Committee of Seventy, who were present in the office, knowing the true history of the affidavits and the issue of the warrants, were much amused by the astonishing complacency of the Police Superintendent. Another remarkable fact is the sudden disappearance of MARY CONWAY, who has been spirited away, there is little doubt, by the accomplices of the Ring.

HOW HAGERTY AND BALCH WERE ARRESTED.

The arrest of EDWIN M. HAGERTY and CHARLES BALCH on the charge of stealing the vouchers from the Controller's office was made by Detectives RADFORD and MCCORD, under the direction of Superintendent KELSO, yesterday morning, on warrants issued by Judge DOWLING. HAGERTY was taken on Fifth-avenue, near Delmonico's, and BALCH in Essex-street, and the job was so suddenly and quietly done, that not a half-dozen persons had collected in the room when the prisoners were brought up at the Tombs PoliceCourt before Judge DOWLING.

They were accompanied by Superintendent KELSO, Capt. IRVING, of the Detective force, Messrs. MCCORD and RADFORD, and Capt. CHERRY, of the Twenty-seventh Precinct. District-Attorney GARVIN appeared for the people, and JOHN GRAHAM for HAGERTY. Ex-Judge GEO. C. BARRETT and WM. BARRETT, Esq., of the Committee of Seventy, SAMUEL G. COURTNEY, MILES BEACH, and SAMUEL J. TILDEN, also appeared in Court at a late hour. Affidavits were made by Superintendent KELSO and Capt. CHERRY, and upon the evidence contained in them, the District-Attorney moved that the accused be committed for examination, without bail, and the Judge so ordered, setting down the examination, in accordance with Judge GARVIN'S wish, for 10 o'clock this morning, to be held in the Special Sessions Court-room, at the Tombs. The following are the affidavits:

THE POLICE AFFIDAVITS.

State of New-York, City and County of New-York, ss.—First District Police Court.—JAMES J. KELSO, Superintendent of the Police of the City of New-York, being duly sworn, deposes and says that on the 20th day of September, 1871, at the City of New-York, in the County of New-York, Capt. CHERRY, of the Twenty-seventh Precinct Police, called upon deponent and officially informed him that he had received information that a female servant, formerly in the employ of EDWIN HAGERTY, Janitor of the County Court-house, knew something of the breaking in of the Controller's office, in said Court-house, and the abstraction therefrom of vouchers, papers and documents filed therein, and belonging thereto. That said CHERRY also stated that from investigations made by him, he had learned that said HAGERTY and a man by the name of CHARLES BALCH, an assistant under the said HAGERTY, in said building, were in some way connected with the said breaking in and abstraction. That deponent immediately ordered Capt. CHERRY to at once find the said female, take her in custody, and bring her at once before this deponent at Police Head-quarters; and this deponent also ordered Capt. IRVING to effect the arrest of said HAGERTY and BALCH, who are both now here; but up to the present time Capt. CHERRY has not succeeded in finding the said woman, who had been removed from the premises No. 95 Washington-street by, as the Captain was informed, one MURPHY, a messenger in the Controller's office. JAMES J. KELSO.

THOMAS CHERRY, Captain of the Twenty-seventh Precinct Police, being duly sworn, says: That on the 20th day of September, 1871, at the City of New-York, in the County of New-York, he received information from Officer BROSNAN, a patrolman under his command, that there was a female at No. 95 Washington-street circulating a story that she knew the parties who had stolen the vouchers and papers from the Controller's office; that deponent then reported the matter to Superintendent KELSO, who at once ordered deponent to find the said woman, take her into custody, and bring her before him at his office at Police Head-quarters; that deponent personally instituted the search after the said woman, but up to this time he has been unable to find her; that after several visits to the premises where deponent had received information that the said female had resided in and about the neighborhood, he learned from females in the said premises, No. 95 Washington-street, and No. 103 Greenwich-street, that the said female had been taken away by a man named MURPHY, who had been, or still is, a watchman or messenger under Controller CONNOLLY in the Controller's office. That deponent also was informed by females in the said No. 95 Washington-street, and about the neighborhood thereof, that the said female currently reported that she knew all about the breaking in of the Controller's office aforesaid and the stealing of the vouchers, documents, &c.; and that the said breaking and abstraction was committed by EDWIN M. HAGERTY and CHARLES BALCH, and that she was a servant in the employ of said HAGERTY, in said County Court-house, fourteen months. THOMAS CHERRY.

The commitment order of the Court declared that EDWIN M. HAGERTY and CHARLES BALCH being charged upon the oaths of Superintendent KELSO and THOMAS CHERRY with having on the 10th day of September burglariously entered the County Bureau, in the Controller's office, in the County Court-house, in the City Hall Park, in the Sixth Ward of the City of New-York, whence they feloniously took, stole, and carried away papers, vouchers, and documents, the property of the Corporation of the City of New-York and of the Supervisors of the County of New-York, were to be held in custody by the Warden until such time as the charge should be thoroughly investigated by the Court. Subpœnas were issued by the Clerk of the Court to insure the attendance of Controller CONNOLLY and the County Auditor. The man named MURPHY, who is said to have taken the woman away, was also subpœnaed to produce her in Court this morning. After the commitment had been read, the prisoners were removed, BALCH going at once to his cell, and HAGERTY retiring to a private room, where he had a lengthened conference with his counsel, Mr. GRAHAM, after which he was also locked up.

WHO EDWIN M. HAGERTY IS.

Mr. EDWIN M. HAGERTY is quite a young man, of good personal appearance and manners, and is invariably dressed in the most fashionable style. He was a member of the old Board of Councilmen, and was subsequently elected as its Clerk, but was soon replaced by Mr. WM. MALONEY. He was a member of the Americus Club, and was appointed to his present position of Janitor of the new Court-house by PETER B. SWEENY about two years ago. He is also said to be a favorite of TWEED'S. On the Monday morning succeeding the theft of the vouchers, he stated to our reporter that he was absent, with his family, from the building during the whole day, and that he did not return until late at night, a statement confirmed by the wife of the custodian of the old City Hall. He said he knew nothing of the burglary, had no idea when, how or by whom it was done; that the offices were not under his charge, as private watchmen were employed, over whom he had no control. The whole management, he said, was in a muddle; he had often complained about it, but it did no good, and he did not, therefore, consider himself responsible in any way for what occurred. HAGERTY is under indictment conjointly with JAMES LYNCH and WILLIAM LAMPSON, all of whom were inspectors of election, in the United States Circuit Court, on a charge of allowing about 150 men whose names were not on the registry to vote at the last election. His wife is the keeper of a poultry and fruit stand in Washington Market, and is reputed wealthy. HAGERTY has a brother, MARK HAGERTY, on the Police force, who is specially detailed for service in the Mayor's office.

HAGERTY conversed courteously with one or two of the reporters who first called on him, though he afterward refused to see any of the dozen or more who desired to interview him. He stoutly denied that he had anything to do with the robbery, and said he thought the charge originated in the maliciousness of MARY CONWAY, the servant referred to in the affidavits, who wanted to injure him because he had discharged her. If this is not the motive of the charge, he says, it must be the work of some one who thinks to clear himself by inculpating an innocent man.

WHO CHARLES BALCH IS.

CHARLES BALCH has filled several minor offices under the City Government, such as messenger to the Clerk of the Common Council and to the City Librarian. He had been out of employment some time when appointed to his present position as Captain of the night watch or subjanitor. He stated to our reporter on the morning after the robbery that he had left the Court-house about 7 A. M. on Sunday, after locking all the doors, and that he did not return to the building during the day. He said then, and repeated the statement yesterday, that the glass in the door leading to the County Auditor's office, which is said to have been cut out by the burglars, has been cracked for a long time. He feared that the banging of the door would cause it to fall out, and had several times called the attention of the Court-house Commissioners to it, without avail, previous to the alleged burglary. BALCH is about forty years of age, and has always been in limited circumstances.

A REMARKABLE TALE.

Capt. CHERRY, when visited by the TIMES reporter, repeated to him the substance of his affidavit as printed above, and stated that since he had had the information in reference to this woman MARY CONWAY, he had made every effort to arrest her, but had failed thus far. He had got notice that she was to visit a woman at No. 34 City Hall-place, and had been there several times, but found the door locked on the outside with a padlock. When questioned in regard to time and dates, Capt. CHERRY was extremely vague. The woman had been at No. 103 Greenwich-street, and at No. 95 Washington-street, and it was on the strength of information she gave to Officer BROSNUN, at one of those places, while conferring with him about a certain trunk of hers, that the arrest was made. But at which place the remarks were made, and when it was, the Captain did not seem to feel sure. The woman might have been last seen at one of the houses on Monday, but on the whole he thought it was probably on Tuesday, though he did not feel sure on which day it was, nor in which house it occurred. He gave his information to Superintendent KELSO on Wednesday night, and on the afternoon of that day he got his first information from Officer BROSNAN. Had he known nothing about it the previous day when the woman according to his own account could have been found? Well, he had had, may be, a little inkling about it then, but Officer BROSNAN had not brought his information which finally decided the case till Wednesday. He had made tremendous efforts since then to find the woman who had made these statements to Officer BROSNAN, and had already been twice since morning to No. 34 City Hall place, but had found the padlock in statu quo on both occasions. He was soon going up there again, and hoped to find the house open.

Judge DOWLING said, when questioned, that the information contained in the affidavits—i. e., the tale of Officer BROSNAN—was all he knew about the case, and Superintendent KELSO said the same. Mr. KELSO did not like the rumors which the reporter told him were flying about down-town, namely, "that the Police had had evidence enough to take HAGERTY on for a week, but had not wished to arrest him, and would not now have done so had they not positively known that the Committee of Seventy were about to bring him to justice before an incorruptible bar." Mr. KELSO said he had not known anything whatever of the preparations of the Committee of Seventy to arrest HAGERTY till after he was actually in the hands of the detectives. He had received his information from Capt. CHERRY on Wednesday night, and acted on it at once, as he was in duty bound to do. Police Commissioner SMITH said he had known nothing of the actions of the Committee of Seventy whatever, except when they sent a representative to ask police protection at their great meeting at Cooper Institute.

MRS. HAGERTY BEFORE JUDGE LEDWITH.

Controller CONNOLLY, accompanied by MURPHY, the watchman, and MARY CONWAY, HAGERTY'S servant, appeared before Justice LEDWITH on Wednesday night, who, after listening to and recording their statements, granted warrants for the arrest of the parties implicated in the theft of the vouchers, among whom were HAGERTY, BALCH and Mrs. HAGERTY. The warrant was placed in the hands of Officer BOWER, of the Court Squad, who executed it yesterday morning, while Mrs. HAGERTY was in charge of her fruit-stand in Washington Market. The woman was brought to Essex Market Police Court shortly before noon, and was at once taken to Judge LEDWITH'S private room without observation, where she remained several hours, apparently indifferent to the situation, awaiting the arrival of her counsel. Mrs. HAGERTY is a fresh-looking rosy-cheeked woman, and is quite comely in her appearance, but is spoken of by those who had known her for years as being a perfect virago, and very loose in her monetary transactions. Soon after the arrival of Mrs. HAGERTY, Judge LEDWITH sent for District-Attorney GARVIN, who, with Mr. JOHN GRAHAM, the prisoner's counsel, made their appearance in Court at 3 o'clock P. M. Judge BEACH, Ex-Judge BARRETT and Mr. SAMUEL G. COURTENAY were also present on behalf of the Committee of Seventy and as Controller CONNOLLY'S counsel. The following remarkable affidavits on which the warrants were procured for the arrest of the parties implicated, were then read:

AFFIDAVIT OF MR. CONNOLLY.

CITY AND COUNTY OF NEW-YORK, ss.—RICHARD B. CONNOLLY, of said City and County, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he is the Controller of New-York, and was such at the time and times hereafter mentioned; that on the 10th day of September, 1871, the office of said Controller, in said City of New-York was burglariously entered, and written instruments whereby rights and obligations were created as well as extinguished, to wit: certain vouchers and warrants and other instruments representing amounts paid by the County of New-York, through its officers, to the sum of at least $10,000,000, were feloniously stolen and carried away from said office.

And deponent further says that he suspects and believes that EDWIN M. HAGERTY, CHARLES BALCH and Mrs. HAGERTY committed the burglary aforesaid, and feloniously abstracted the instruments and documents aforesaid.

And deponent further says that on the 10th day of September, 1871, certain vouchers, receipts, and warrants for the payment of money, were filed and deposited in the office of the Controller of the City of New-York, in the City of New-York, (the said office being then and there a public office,) and such vouchers, receipts and warrants, so as aforesaid filed and deposited, were, on the said 10th day of September, 1871, feloniously stolen and carried away from the said Controller's office, and deponent suspects and believes that the same were, so as aforesaid, feloniously stolen and carried away by EDWIN M. HAGERTY, CHARLES BALCH and Mrs. HAGERTY.

And deponent further says that upon the annexed affidavit of MARY CONWAY and WILLIAM MURPHY, he charges the offense aforesaid mentioned against the said EDWIN M. HAGERTY, CHARLES BALCH, and Mrs. HAGERTY, and therefore asks a warrant for their arrest. RICHARD B. CONNOLLY.

AFFIDAVIT OF THE WATCHMAN.

City and County of New-York, ss.: WILLIAM MURPHY, being duly sworn, doth depose and say: I am night watchman in the Controller's Department in the Court-house; on Saturday night, Sept. 9, when I came down about six o'clock to go on duty, I met CHARLES BALCH at the front door, and he says to me, "MURPHY, what time do you go away from here to-morrow morning?" Says I, "I will go away may be at 6 or half-past 6 o'clock." "Well," says he, "when you go away put the latch down in the door, because last Sunday morning HAGERTY'S boy took a lot of boys upstairs on the roof, and I believe he said the masons or stone-cutters had some glue up there, and the boys destroyed all the stuff." Says I, "All right, CHARLIE, I'll do it." So then I went into the office and stayed there. Between 8 and 9 o'clock I was standing at the side window that looks into Chambers-street, and I heard the door slam; I pushed the window up and looked out and saw CHARLIE come out; and when he saw me open the window, he says to me: "MURPHY, is that you?" Says I, "Yes." So I went around and opened the iron door on the side near the Chamberlain's office and came out. He questioned me the same way again as to what time I would go away I said about 6 or 6¼ in the morning. Said he, "Don't forget about the latch." Said I, "No." Said he, "If anybody should come around looking for me tell them I am around the building somewhere." I said, "All right." Then he went out and shut the door. That was the last I saw of him. I don't know whether I saw him on Monday morning or not. I remained there until about 6 o'clock on Sunday morning; then I went up home, and I put the latch down before leaving, so that no one could get in without a key. When I got my breakfast I came down here again. I got here about 9 o'clock; I saw HAGERTY going up stairs as I came in, and he a kind of stumbled; I could not see whether they were papers or what they were, but whatever they were, he stumbled upstairs and something fell, and he picked it up again and put it on his arm. He had them on his arm, whatever they were. He says to me, "Hallos, MURPHY." Says I, "How do you do, Mr. 'HAGERTY!" then I went into the office and walked around and seen there was nothing disturbed; I waited until 9¼ o'clock, when Mr. STORRS came there; I went out and opened the door to let Mr. STORRS in; he could not get in without. After I let Mr. STORRS in Mr. LAWRENCE came; I let him in, and in the meantime, when I let him into the hall, I saw that there was a piece of thick blotting-paper pasted outside of the hole in the window, on the outside; I lifted up a little corner of the paper and saw that the glass was broken; I said to myself, this must have got broken and some of the clerks must have put this paper over so as not to let anyone look in here; I paid no more attention to it. Mr. STORRS went away about half-past 12. He says to me: "MURPHY, you had better stay here this afternoon, as I may want to come back here again." Says I: "Yes, Sir." Then I stayed until 6 o'clock. I went up-town and got something to eat, and got back here about 9 o'clock. When I came back and went in, I seen the stick was away from the door, and the glass was broke; there is a stick that goes up against the door. I fastened the door, and when REGAN came in the morning I reported to Mr. REGAN. He said to me, "Did you miss anything?" Said I, "No; I don't see anything missed here." After that the Controller sent up-town for me, and in the meantime I was down here listening to the Injunction trial in the Court. I knew nothing about anything being gone until a young man came into Court and saw me, and said Mr. CONNOLLY wanted to see me. I went up-stairs and told him just what I have said here. I stayed in the Controller's office. Mr. CONNOLLY says to me, "What kept you up-town so long?" I said I went into my brother's store up-town, and he was going away, and wanted me to stay until he came back.

On Friday night I think Mr. CONNOLLY told me they had arrested a man; I judged from what CHARLES BALCH said to me and from my seeing HAGERTY going upstairs on Sunday morning, that they might have went there; I went upstairs and asked MARY if she knew anything about it, and from what she said I partly judged she did; while we were talking she thought she heard Mr. HAGERTY coming upstairs, and I went down and she went into the room; then I went upstairs again and told her not to say anything about it to anybody until she saw me; in the meantime I told the Controller I thought I could find out where the papers were gone. He said, "You try and find out where they are gone, for," he said, "they are laid on me for taking them." I told him I would do my best; on Sunday, about half-past five o'clock, I got down here, and met one of the firemen, and he says to me, "Billy, do you know the girl that is in the new Court-house?" I said, "Yes;" said he, "she was up here this morning, and she wanted to see you, and if you go down to No. 95 Washington-street, you will find her; so I went into the Court-house; I told the man on watch there that I wanted to go down to Washington-street; I went down and came back again; I got back about eight o'clock; MARY told me that she would go to the Controller's house and state all she knew about it; I asked her if she would not come up with me, and she said yes; that she would go up on Monday night; I said no, he might not be home, but that I would come down and let her know when she should go; so then I told Mr. CONNOLLY that we would go up on Monday night, and he said, "No, I will not be at home, but come up on Tuesday morning;" that was yesterday morning; I said, "All right, Sir, I will come up;" so I brought her up to the house and saw Mr. CONNOLLY, and she gave the statement to Mr. CONNOLLY; Mr. CONNOLLY told her not to say anything about it, because they had a man arrested, and he knew the man was innocent, and he wanted to see what they would do with him; she went into the cars and I went home; about 1 o'clock yesterday there were two men came to the house after me, and told me the Controller wanted to see me right away; I came right down and saw the Controller, and he said to me, "MURPHY, will you go down and see the girl? Do you think you can get her to come to No. 27 Chambers-street, Mr. BEACH'S office?" I said I guess I could. I asked if he wanted her right away. He said yes. Then I went down and she was not home. I saw the woman she stops with, and she told me she had come up after her clothes. I came up to the Court-house and waited; I did not see the Controller; then I went home and got some supper, and got back here about 6 o'clock. I told the man on watch that I wanted to go away for a little time. He said all right. I went down to Washington-street again last night. MARY was not at home. The woman said she was gone to see some friend of hers. I went down this morning and saw her, and brought her here.

AFFIDAVIT OF THE SERVANT.

City and County of New-York, ss.: MARY CONWAY, being duly sworn, doth depose and say: I have lived with Mr. and Mrs. HAGERTY in the County Court-house for over fourteen months as cook; for about three or four months I did general house-work; on Sunday morning, Sept. 10, I got out of bed with the child that slept with me wanting to get up; I don't know whether it was 6¼ or 7 o'clock; Mrs. HAGERTY came into the room in her night-dress and said to me: "It is too early to get up yet;" I said to her: "Being as I am up I guess I will dress myself;" as I was dressed I went out into the hall; I heard a knocking downstairs; I said to Mrs. HAGERTY it sounds as if it was at the Controller's door. I went over to the kitchen, unlocked the kitchen-door, and went downstairs to the head of the stairs that leads to the Controller's hall. I saw CHARLEY BALCH knocking at the Controller's door, and calling "MURPHY, are you there?" MURPHY is a watchman. I came upstairs, and went back to the kitchen. Shortly after, I went down-stairs again, and saw CHARLEY BALCH with the door of the Controller's office open, he holding it back on the outside, and I saw Mr. HAGERTY come out of the door with bundles of papers on his arm, and bring them up to his bedroom. The door where he came out is at the foot of the stairs, where the glass is broken, that enters the County Bureau. I came back, and did not go down any more. Each bundle of papers was tied with either a pink tape or a pink ribbon round them. The next thing I went over from the kitchen out into the hall for a scuttle of coal; in this hall Mr. HAGERTY'S bedroom door faced me; I saw a man with gray clothes going in there with another bundle of papers like what Mr. HAGERTY had; then I brought back the coal to the kitchen and put it on the fire; the next I saw was this man with the gray clothes going down with a pillow-case on his back, full, that looked as though filled with papers, shaped like the bundles Mr. HAGERTY had. At the same time he went down the stairs CHARLEY BALCH said to him, "This way." I a kind of judged there was something up, and I went to look in the drawer where the pillow-cases were, and I missed one of the linen pillow-cases; I did this soon afterward; soon after the man went down with the pillow-case Mrs. HAGERTY came into the kitchen, giving me a key and telling me to go over to the drying-room; that is a room separate from the bedrooms; there was a chest there full of linen, table-linen and bed-linen, and silver right down in the bottom; she told me to get a nut-picker and bring it over; that Mr. HAGERTY wanted one; I took out all the clothes out of the trunk and got the nut-picker and brought it back to her, and before I got into the kitchen I said to Mrs. HAGERTY: "What is the matter? The kitchen's all black with smoke, and the dining room's all black with smoke." She said: "Mr. HAGERTY wanted these papers burned; I told him not to put them in, but he wants them burned." I went over to the range to cook some eggs for breakfast; it was full of burned papers on the top and in the bottom. There lay a bundle of papers on the top that were about half burned, with a piece of pink tape round them. I put on the cover again; they were partly smothered, going out; Mrs. HAGERTY had a poker stirring up the papers on the top and underneath, where the ashes were; the bottom of the range was full of burning papers, and Mrs. HAGERTY had the poker stirring them up so that they would burn faster. From underneath the range, and from the top, she took three or four pails full of burning papers and emptied them upstairs on the attic floor in a heap of ashes. On Tuesday next, when Mrs. HAGERTY came home from the market, she asked me if there was anything new about this robbery in the Controller's office; I told her I did not know, I didn't hear nothing, no more than a man came upstairs today and asked me if I let anybody in on Sunday, or if I knowed anybody to come into the building on Sunday; I told him I didn't know who come in, I didn't attend to the front door; I was cooking, and had nothing to do with the front door, and I asked the man who sent him upstairs. He said a man down in the hall sent him upstairs to inquire. Next I told Mrs. HAGERTY that if I had known it was CHARLEY BALCH sent him upstairs to find any information from me I should tell the man to go down-stairs, that CHARLEY BALCH knew as much about it as I did and more, for he was one of the men that helped to rob it. She said to me, "Christ! If CHARLEY BALCH knowed that he'd run into the East River and drown himself—if he knowed you saw him." This was on Tuesday night I told her this. Mr. HAGERTY left town on Tuesday, saying he was going to Saratoga with HANK SMITH, and he would be home on Thursday or Friday, and on Wednesday night he got home from Saratoga. Mrs. HAGERTY told him the remarks I made to her on Tuesday night, about the robbery—that I saw all that passed. She told me on Thursday morning that she told Mr. HAGERTY about it all last night; that he was going to wash his feet, but he felt so bad over it they sat up for two hours in the room talking, and he didn't wash his feet. On Thursday morning, when Mr. HAGERTY came into the kitchen, he came to me, running in, and said, "MARY." I said, "Sir." Said he, "I don't want you to speak of what you saw passed here on Sunday morning; I don't want you to tell these old women or old men in the building; CHARLEY BALCH done it for me, and I done it for another man." I said, "I haven't told it to any one." He said, "You did tell it to KITTY," (his wife.) I said, "She knew as much about it as I did; she saw the papers burning." On next Friday of that same week I saw MARK HAGERTY, Mr. HAGERTY'S brother, who is a detective in the Mayor's office, I think; I called him upstairs and asked him to come in; he said, "No, I am afraid to come in; I am afraid of ED.," that is, Mr. HAGERTY; they have not been on speaking terms in a year; I then told him the occurrence that happened in the Court-house on Sunday morning; I told him I didn't feel like staying there; that I was almost crazy about it; that I felt bad about it. He told me to keep it still; that if any body would hear about it outside they would be collared. I asked him would it be prison? He said certainly. On Saturday night I went down to the market where Mrs. HAGERTY keeps a stand, and told her that I was going to leave for a few days, until this mess would be settled, for fear there would be any arrest and I should be a witness; she told me all I had to say was that I knew nothing about it; I told her a false oath I would not give; what I saw with my eyes I would swear to; she told me I could do as I chose about it—that I might go against Mr. HAGERTY if I chose. She said: "It's foolish of you to think so; you ought to go to head-quarters and consult Mr. KELSO about it." I told her no, it was none of my business to go and consult him about Mr. HAGERTY'S robbery. Then she and I came together to the Court-house; I got a couple of dresses and a night-dress; I went down-stairs; she went with me; I met a policeman at the door and he asked me where I was going; I told him I was going to see my uncle's wife, she was sick. I then went down to Washington-street; I came up for my clothes yesterday (Tuesday;) the rooms were locked; I went down to the market where Mrs. HAGERTY does business, and the first thing she said to me was, "By Christ Almighty, Mr. HAGERTY will take your life!" I says to her, "What for?" She said, "What you told MARK." I said, "I've told him the truth about the robbery." She says, "Your life will be taken, by Christ Almighty!" I said, "I want my clothes." She said, "You can get your clothes any time, what belongs to you." She did not come up, and did not open the door; I left my trunk in the hall of the Court-house that I brought to put my clothes in; they are over there yet; on that day, before I saw Mrs. HAGERTY, Mr. MURPHY came to me and asked me if I knowed anything about the robbery; if I did to please tell the Controller; I a-kind of smiled and said I knew nothing about it; "Well," said he, "I know you know something about it." I was making the bed in Mr. HAGERTY'S room when Mr. MURPHY came up and asked me if I knowed anything about it; I a-kind of smiled and said no. Mr. MURPHY says, "I know better, you do." I says, "Why?" Says he, "Suppose you should be arrested, then you'd have to prove about it whether you knew anything about it or not." That was in the hall. Said I, "When I'm arrested it's time enough to prove it then." I then promised to see him on the stoop on Saturday night, but I did not. I came up on Sunday morning, and left word at the hook-and-ladder house to have Mr. MURPHY come and see me on Sunday night at No. 95 Washington-street; MURPHY came to see me, and I told him I would go up to the Controller's house with him and tell the Controller all I knew about it, and that I was not doing it for any reward or money; I was doing it to clear the Controller in the eyes of the people; I went on Tuesday morning with MURPHY to the Controller's house, and made the above statement to him; this morning there was a policeman came into the house where I am staying, at No. 95 Washington-street; the woman in the house told me he would give me advice about the clothes I had left in the Court-house; he asked me if I had any charge against me to say I could not get my clothes; I told him no, no more than what I saw on Sunday morning week, and I explained it to him; he asked me, "Have you been speaking to Mr. CONNOLLY?" I said, "Yes, certainly." The policeman went out of the house; the Captain (as the woman called him) came to the door and knocked, and asked the woman about me; she said I had stepped out; he brought her out on the side-walk and was talking to her a little while, and as I was in the room I heard him speak HANK SMITH'S name to her once; when she came in she said he told her that he would like to see me and have a talk with me, because they would do as much for me as Mr. CONNOLLY would in this business.

MARY CONWAY.

Sworn to before me Sept. 20, 1871.

THOS. A. LEDWITH, Police Justice.

After the affidavits were read, Mr. GRAHAM made application for the release of Mrs. HAGERTY on bail, on the ground that there was no evidence adduced to show she had any knowledge of the nature of the papers which were destroyed, but that it directly pointed to a different conclusion. He referred to the hardships she would sustain by imprisonment, the injury it would occasion business, and the moral shock she would receive, and expressed his readiness to give ample bail for her appearance on examination this morning.

Judge LEDWITH—From the issues involved in this case, and from its importance in all its aspects, I am compelled on an examination of the papers to commit the prisoner without bail.

Mr. GRAHAM—I consider, Mr. District-Attorney, that Judge LEDWITH cannot assume a judicial character in this case, for he is a member of the Committee of Seventy, and is therefore, a prosecutor, and from the course he has taken, and the words he has used, seems also to be counsel for the prosecution. I shall therefore endeavor to have the case removed to another tribunal; he is also politically affiliated with persons who are desirous to appear to take part in this prosecution, and I here object emphatically to the association of any individual with the District-Attorney as private prosecutor.

Judge BARRETT here interposed and said that he had desired to associate himself with Judge GARVIN in the conduct of the cases, but the District-Attorney had altogether refused to listen to any such proposition. He was there not as private prosecutor, but as a member of the Committee of Seventy, and as a private citizen.

Mr. GRAHAM—Oh well, I'm glad to hear it; I considered it an aspersion on Judge GARVIN'S character, and besides object on principle to the association of private counsel with the prosecution; and I will here observe that I trust nobody will think I am in collusion with the District-Attorney.

Judge GARVIN—Oh, I think nobody can imagine that.

Mr. GRAHAM—I seriously hope not. I have often had occasion to contend against the District-Attorney, and have opposed him to the best of my poor abilities, but I believe him as incapable of collusion as myself. I trust his Honor will reconsider his decision, and that he will look at the affidavits first before he irrevocably consigns this lady to the horrors of incarceration. The only evidence against Mrs. HAGERTY is that of the servant girl MARY CONWAY. Now I consider her half-witted. There is an indescribable something in her countenance which revealed to me at a glance that she was unworthy of credence, and not a competent witness. But putting that aside, I will ask his Honor to remember that whatever Mrs. HAGERTY may have done was under the duress and fear of her husband, for which she cannot be amenable. She can't be detained as a witness, for the law will not allow her to testify where her husband is concerned, and she can't be detained as a principal, because under the guidance of her husband.

Here Judge LEDWITH calmly repeated his decision that she must be committed for examination without bail. GRAHAM made repeated efforts to have her permitted to return home under custody of an officer, or to place her in charge of Mrs. FOSTER, of the Tombs, but Judge LEDWITH was inexorable, and the lady was removed to one of the upper rooms of Ludlow-street Jail.

Some conversation then took place between Judge BARRETT and the District-Attorney, and it was agreed that the former should be permitted to advise, sotto voce, both as to fact and law, but that he would not be permitted to rise and address the Court.

Action of the Committee of Seventy.

A meeting of the Committee of Seventy was held at 3 P. M. yesterday in the Chamber of Commerce, for the purpose of discussing and taking action upon the arrest of the prisoners, EDWIN M. HAGERTY, CHARLES BALCH, and Mrs. HAGERTY. The Committee also discussed the propriety of drawing up a set of resolutions to the effect that WM. C. BARRETT, Esq., should be allowed to represent the Committee at the examination which comes off before Judge DOWLING at 10 o'clock this morning.

Some brief speeches were made, in which the speakers alluded in condemnatory terms to the action of the parties who brought the prisoners up for trial before Judge DOWLING instead of before Judge LEDWITH. The members were unanimously of opinion that the case was legally in the hands of Judge LEDWITH, who issued the original warrants for the arrest of the prisoners, and that before him and before him alone, they should be brought up for examination.

After some discussion the following resolutions, proposed by Mr. FRANCIS C. BARLOW, were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Warrants were, on Sept. 20, issued by Mr. Justice LEDWITH for the arrest of EDWIN M. HAGERTY and CHARLES BALCH, and a woman called Mrs. HAGERTY upon a charge of stealing the vouchers from the office of the Controller on Sept. 11. And,

Whereas, Said warrant was issued upon a charge of RICHARD B. CONNOLLY, Controller, upon full and positive affidavits. And,

Whereas, After the issuing of said warrants, said persons were arrested upon a warrant issued by Mr. Justice DOWLING, upon the complaint of a Police Captain, upon information and belief merely, and their examination is set down for Sept. 22, at 10 o'clock A. M., before Mr. Justice DOWLING; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That in view of the investigations heretofore made by this Committee and the full information in their possession, Hon. S. B. GARVIN, District-Attorney, be, and he is hereby requested to allow this Committee to appear by their counsel to take part in the said examination and prosecution.

Resolved, That WILLIAM C. BARRETT, Esq., be, and he is, hereby designated and requested to represent this Committee on said examination and prosecution.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be served upon District-Attorney GARVIN, and that the Chair appoint a committee of three to present them engrossed and signed.

The Chair appointed the following Committee to present the resolutions to District-Attorney GARVIN: FRANCIS C. BARLOW, SIMON STERNE and FREDERICK SCHECK.

The meeting then adjourned, and the resolutions were intrusted to the care of Mr. W. C. BARRETT, who immediately repaired to his office to have them engrossed, preparatory to their being presented to Judge GARVIN. Judge GARVIN declined to comply with the request embodied in them.

Judge Garvin Refuses to Take Counsel.

Immediately after the meeting of the Committee of Seventy, yesterday, a TIMES reporter proceeded to the office of District-Attorney GARVIN, with the view of ascertaining from him how he regarded the request of the Committee to allow W. C. BARRETT, Esq., to represent them at the trial of HAGGERTY and BALCH, set down for a hearing at 10 o'clock this morning before Judge DOWLING, at the Tombs. The following colloquy took place:

REPORTER—Mr. District Attorney, I suppose you are aware of the fact that the Committee of Seventy have appointed a subcommittee to wait on you this afternoon with the view of asking you to allow W. C. BARRETT to represent them on the trial to-morrow.

Judge GARVIN—The Committee have not yet called on me, nor presented me with any resolutions to that effect. I don't propose to allow any outside counsel to participate in the case for the prosecution with me. In case I am not in a position to attend myself at the examination before Judge DOWLING, to-morrow, I shall send one of my assistants who, I think, can conduct the case very well without any additional assistance from these gentlemen.

REPORTER—Then, Sir, you will not allow any person to appear in the case besides yourself, or, in your

THE OCTOBER MAGAZINES.

The latest Lippincott does no injustice to its imprint. A judicious variety is sustained and some of the contents have substantial literary merit. Mr. EDWARD WHYMPER'S "Scrambles Among the Alps in the Years 1860-9," are among those records of adventure that magazine readers so much affect. The moral of "How Mother Did It" is indubitably healthy and worthy of inculcation, but, as with many tales with a "purpose," the "intent and not the deed" most commands our approval. "Wild Ireland," which has been an extremely graphic and characteristic series, is concluded in this number. "Making an Omelette" is translated from the French of GUSTAVE DROZ. Mr. HERBERT SANTLEY furnishes in "Marriage" a social essay containing some excellent thoughts. The "Braudon Ghost" and "Keen Faun" do duty in the difficult "Short Story" department, and the poetry is a little below the average. "A Week on the Bergstrasse" is nice reading, and J. W. PALMER brings "The City of Monuments" to a satisfactory conclusion. The eighth installment of "Rookstone," by KATHARINE S. MACQUOID, is quite spirited and promises well for the future. In "Our monthly Gossip," somebody who has lately been in London during the season, seems ambitious to eclipse the fame, in one particular respect, of Mr. HAWTHORNE, e. g.:

"Nothing can exaggerate the beauty, the distinction, the insolence, the perfect dressing of an English 'swell.' But who shall describe the women? HAWTHORNE, in a famous passage, has depicted one class with the colors of Rubens. The inveterate selfishness and arrogance which in the men produces calmness, ease and a not ungraceful hauteur, takes an aggressive form in the softer sex, making them hard and rude in manner, and giving them a bold, hostile expression. Their rigid training makes them stiff; their constitutional shyness, awkward; their national want of taste, dowdy. They are slaves of conventionality and outlaws of courtesy. As M. EDMOND ABOUT says, they generally have teeth like the white keys of a piano, and this, together with a certain wide-eyed, stony stare, produces somewhat the effect of the Gorgon's head. Yet they often have beauty in a high degree—good brows, chiseled noses, well-shaped heads well set upon their shoulders, and those shoulders sufficient in themselves to carry off a world of plainness. At the opera, where full dress is customary, row upon row of this fair flesh is displayed, from school-girls of sixteen to dowagers of sixty, and the general effect is of a concourse of fine women. But when subject to the disadvantages of clothes, these same women are very different objects. The quantity and variety of shabby finery with which an English woman loads herself on some occasions is only equaled by her shabby dowdiness on others. Yards of pale-blue, lemon and rose-colored silks and satins trail in the dust of a race-course or cricket-ground, while for the daily walk or drive an Astrakhan or seal-skin coat is often pulled over a tumbled muslin, crowned by a sumptuous bonnet with soiled strings."

'Content to dwell indecencies for ever,'

The October Harper's has its usual variety, and more than its usual strength. Some of the papers are peculiarly interesting, and among the number the contribution of Mr. R. H. HORNE will be read with eagerness. "Dolores" contains pretty lines, and is very well illustrated. "The New-York City Post-office" tells what many will be glad to know of its history, extending back, as it does, to a time beyond the memory of the living. A description of the "Yale College Expedition of 1870" is one of the taking out-of-door articles for which this magazine is so worthily distinguished. "Reindeer, Dogs and Snow-shoes" is concluded in this number. The whole series is now out in book form, and is excellent of its kind, having the rare advantage of depicting scenes that are totally unfamiliar. Gen. MARCY continues his "Border Reminiscences," Mr. BAYARD TAYLOR enriches the number by a contribution in prose, and "Mr. Petroleum V. Nasby" by one in verse. "The American Baron" and "Anne Furness," are still the current serials. "Teddy's Triumph" is a well-told short story. "The Conquest of Ireland" serves as an historical contribution to the miscellany, while "Postage Stamps and their Origin" is set off with no fewer than ninety-nine illustrations. Some short poems and the customary adroit assortment of telling fragments, didactic, scientific and humorous, finish up a number not often surpassed in the most estimable qualities for which this magazine is distinguished.

—Strong names figure in the "Contents" of the October Galaxy. It happens that the strongest writing is not in this instance to be credited to such names, which is, however, an incident neither surprising nor unprecedented. Mr. GREELEY'S "The One Term Principle" illustrates this forcibly enough. The paper is, we may say, transparent without being lucid, and is provincially expressed without being particularly calculated to convince or touch the hearts of those whom Mr. LINCOLN called "the plain people." Mr. WINTER has a pretty copy of verses in this issue, and Mr. CARL BENSON has a characteristic contribution on subjects he has certainly considered very thoughtfully. Among other writers whose work is printed this month are Mr. E. A. POLLARD, F. W. WEBBER and LUCY H. HOOPER. Mr. ANTHONY TROLLOPE has more of "The Eustace Diamonds," and "A Correspondence," translated from the Russian of JOAN TURGENEFF, is worthy of the author. It contains some very subtle writing. To penetrate so deeply into human motives and sentiments, and especially those of women, is given to few. People miss more than they think who fail to read all they can get from the hand of this writer. The shorter matters at the end of the Galaxy are arranged with solicitude and industry. Some of them, however, that are meant to be funny are deplorably the reverse—one of the few points wherein this magazine is apt to be unfortunate—and the symmetry of an otherwise capital number is thus somewhat impaired.

—The Atlantic blends amusement and instruction this month with a wise discretion. In the first article, "The Intermingling of Religions," by Mrs. L. MARIA CHILD, some ideas are followed out that were suggested in the same magazine in November, 1870. The points of resemblance between the Buddhist and Roman Catholic religions are not indeed, in either case, pointed out for the first time. Mrs. CHILD does not settle the question whether the Buddhists borrowed from the Roman Catholics or the Roman Catholics from the Buddhists; but concludes a very interesting article with an aspiration for an "Eclectic Church" which shall unite the excellencies of all. Mr. ALDRICH'S little poem, "Two," is very pretty. "Kaweah's Run" is a bit of Californian adventure pleasantly told by Mr. CLARENCE KING. H. H. furnishes, in "June Days in Venice," some graceful description, and the third part of "Watch and Ward" is printed. Mr. HIGGINSON subsequently gives an account of an interview with Mrs. HAWTHORNE, in which that lady narrated an interesting episode about the "Scarlet Letter," as follows:

"She said that it was not her husband's custom to sit with her while he wrote, nor to tell her about any literary work till it was finished, but that then he was always impatient to read it to her. In writing the Wonder-Book, to be sure, he liked to read his day's work to the children in the evening, by way of test. She added that while thus occupied with that particular book he was in high spirits; and this, as I knew, meant a good deal, for his daughter had once told me that he was capable of being the very gayest person she ever saw, and that 'there never was such a playmate in all the world.'

But during the whole Winter when the 'Scarlet Letter' was being written he seemed depressed and anxious. 'There was a knot in his forehead all the time,' Mrs. HAWTHORNE said, but she thought it was from some pecuniary anxiety, such as sometimes affected that small household. One evening he came to her and said that he had written something which he wished to read aloud; it was worth very little, but as it was finished, he might as well read it. He read aloud all that evening; but as the romance was left unfinished when they went to bed, not a word was then said about it on either side. He always disliked, she said, to have anything criticised until the whole had been heard. He read a second evening, and the concentrated excitement had grown so great that she could scarcely bear it. At last it grew unendurable, and in the midst of the scene, near the end of the book where Arthur Dimmesdale meets Hester and her child in the forest, Mrs. HAWTHORNE fell from her low stool upon the floor, pressed her hands upon her ears, and said she could hear no more.

HAWTHORNE put down the manuscript and looked at her in perfect amazement. 'Do you really feel it so much?' he said; 'then there must be something in it.' He prevailed on her to rise and to hear the few remaining chapters of the romance.

To those who knew Mrs. HAWTHORNE'S impressible nature, this reminiscence of hers will have no tinge of exaggeration, but will appear very characteristic. She had borne to the utmost the strain upon her emotions before yielding."

Mr. HOWELLS supplies a further installment of his clever story, "Their Wedding Journey," and Mr. J. W. FOREST the tenth chapter of "Kate Beaumont." Mr. WHITTIER'S poetry, "My Birthday," is satisfactorily characteristic, and Mr. BRET HARTE'S is hardly up to the mark of his best work. The "solid" contribution of the number is that of Mr. EDWARD ATKINSON, who, under the heading of "Free Trade—Revenue Reform," discusses those important themes in a vigorous manner. His object is to set forth what the advocates of free trade expect to accomplish with the reform of the revenue, and this is clearly accomplished. Besides these, there are in "Our Whispering Gallery," more of those emotional and ejaculatory letters with which Mr. DICKENS used to regale some of his American friends, and was apparently not mistaken in thinking they would find much to their taste.

—Scribner's is full of pictures and bright reading matter. This magazine is put together with unremitting care, and there is none that can be more conscientiously recommended for the home circle. "An Island on Fire" is a graphic account of a volcano in the Hawaiian Islands. "The Last of the Pequods" is a sketch of EUNICE MAHWEE, who is said to be literally the last survivor of that famous tribe of Indians. According to Mr. LOSSING, EUNICE was born in Derby, Conn., in the year 1759. She was baptized and received into the Congregational Church in 1844, at the age of eighty-five years. Of her many children—she has been twice married—none survive. Mr. LOSSING describes her as an interesting person who still, despite her great age, retains her faculties. "Was Adam the First Man?" is a dissertation on the most absorbing scientific topic of the day, and one in which it is cautiously and ably handled. "The Philosophy of Good Health" argues in behalf of temperance in all things with eloquence and taste; and "Water," while treated in a rather comprehensive manner for the limits of a magazine article, is interesting and profitable. "The Eleventh Cob" and "The Cloak Cubby and the Blue Room" are agreeable completed tales, and Mr. GEO. MACDONALD gives a good allotment of his "Wilfred Cumbermede" by way of serial. The short articles at the end are neatly and temperately written, and add much to the interest and value of the magazine.

—The new issue of the Catholic World presents the usual supply of original and selected matter. "Christianity and Positivism," the opening paper, is a clever criticism on the lectures of Dr. MCCOSH, that have been printed under that name. "Evening Clouds" is a translation of UHLAND'S "Abendwetter." It appears there is still more of the "House of Yorke" and the "Liquefaction of the Blood of St. Januarius"—a deliberate assertion and minute description of the miracle—goes into a second paper and promises a third. "Lucas Garcia" is the second installment of a story translated from FERNAN CABALLERO; and "Egyptian Civilization according to the most recent Discoveries," a most interesting article—is from the Correspondent. "A Week at Lake George" is pleasant, light reading, and the "Elements of our Nationality" and "The Riot of the Twelfth" are such papers as we expect to see in the Catholic World. The magazine is carefully edited and neatly printed, and almost always contains suggestive and well-considered writing.

—The sprightly pens that monthly earn the gratitude of the little people have worked to good purpose in the October number of Our Young Folks. Mr. Trowbridge, Lucy Larcom, Mary N. Prescott, Olive Thorne, R. S. Palfrey, Anna Moore, Ralph Ives, M. W. McEntee, Harvey Wilder and L. G. Noble have all had some part in getting up this issue, and a remarkably good one it is. It is not easy to add anything to our former eulogies of a magazine which, in its way, has never to our knowledge been excelled.

THE POLAR EXPEDITION.

Arrival of the Congress from Greenland—Capt. Davenport's Story—The Polaris Gone Toward the Pole—An Unfortunate Dispute.

The United States steam frigate Congress, Capt. H. K. DAVENPORT, arrived in the Harbor, yesterday, from Disco Island, off the coast of Greenland, after a voyage of thirty-two days. It will be remembered that the Congress was detailed by the Navy Department to convey extra supplies to Greenland for Capt. C. F. HALL'S arctic expedition. The Congress arrived at Disco on the 10th of August, after having quite a rough passage. Capt. DAVENPORT says that the Polaris arrived at Disco only six days in advance of the Congress, and that Capt. HALL, with seventy or eighty Esquimaux, boarded the frigate in Davis Straits, several miles from the harbor. The officers of the Congress spoke particularly of the good spirits that prevailed among the crew of the Polaris, and from Capt. HALL down, they all appeared to be confident of success. As was dreaded when the Polaris left New-York, there seems to have been trouble between Capt. HALL and his scientific associates. There was an unfortunate interpute, it is said, as to the special object of the expedition, which, at one time, assumed a very serious phase. By the judicious and firm disposition of Capt. DAVENPORT, who laid down the resolutions which govern the United States Navy, and stated that the main object was discovering the North-west passage and the North Pole, harmony and good feeling after much difficulty were restored. On the afternoon of Aug. 17, amid the cheers of the crew of the Congress, and a salute of twenty-one guns from her heavy batteries, the little steamer Polaris steamed out of Disco harbor heading northward. Capt. DAVENPORT states that the original plan of Capt. HALL has been somewhat changed, and that instead of pursuing the Jones' Sound route, will keep to the west side of Smith Sound, as the probability is that they will encounter pack ice to the southward and westward. The season, it is reported, is very open, and it is the impression aboard the of Congress that the Polaris will be able to push very far north this year. The Congress was in the harbor of Disco nine days, and found the Greenland Summer quite enjoyable. The United States frigate was received with a salute of fifteen guns on her arrival by the Danish authorities. Every facility was freely extended to the expedition by Inspector SCHMIDT, and the stores which the Polaris could not carry were stored in charge of the Inspector. The Congress will at once be overhauled and refitted, preparatory to her service in the United States naval reception fleet to welcome the Grand Duke ALEXIS to the United States. The following is a list of her officers: Capt. H. K. Davenport; Lieut. Commanders W. T. Sampson and Benj. F. Day; Lieuts. C. H. Stockton and C. F. Arnold; Masters J. V. B. Bleecker, H. H. Hunter and William H. Everett; Midshipmen E. E. Vreeland, G. F. W. Holman, J. C. Spencer, A. H. Cobb, W. E. Sewell, F. E. Green, J. M. Creighton; Surgeon, Edward S. Bogert; Assistant Surgeon, Homer L. Law; Pay-master, George Cochrane; Chief-Engineer, Edward B. Latch; First Assistant Engineer, Charles H. Greenleaf; Second Assistant Engineer, Thomas W. Fitch; First Lieutenant of Marines, Chas. L. Sherman; Captain's Clerk, W. L. Wyman; Pay Clerk, William S. Underdown; boatswain, John Hall; gunner, Wm. J. Devlan; carpenter, Henry Davis; sailmaker, A. A. Warren.

THE NEW-YORK TIMES.

From the Boston Transcript.

The NEW-YORK TIMES continues to receive testimonies from all parts of the country, warmly commending the ability, pertinacity and courage of its attacks on the Ring.

Rochester Express.

In connection with the rapid and terrific exposures of Democratic corruption in New-York City by the TIMES, the Nation says: "Whatever the termination of the affair, the results which have already been achieved entitle the NEW-YORK TIMES to the hearty thanks of every man in the community. There is no instance in the history of journalism of an assault so successful and courageous and determined by a single newspaper upon so great an evil, and it gives us an idea of what the Press might accomplish in driving knaves out of politics, if it were united and untrammeled by party obligations." The compliment is eminently deserved. The TIMES has earned the gratitude of pure-minded men the world over.

Montreal Witness.

Never, perhaps, in the whole history of journalism, has an attack been made at once so bold and so successful as that recently made by the NEW-YORK TIMES on the "Ring" of that City. They had hitherto been deemed so powerful as to be able to crush all opposition, and to bring them to justice seemed a hopeless task. Perhaps even the TIMES itself at first felt that its attempting to do so was somewhat quixotic. But the fearless help those who help themselves, and at the bidding of the Press the very genius of fraud has seemed to become spell bound and forced to enter the presence of its awaiting judges. It is hard to see how this thing can fail to go forward till the whole is dragged to light.

Maysville (Cal.) Appeal.

The NEW-YORK TIMES continues its noble work, in fearlessly exposing the rascally thieving of the Tammany Ring. Its charges bear the stamp of truth upon their face, inasmuch as they give the dates and amounts of a long list of robberies, and the names of the parties who participated in the plunder. In this good work it does not falter for a single day or hour. Each issue shows that during the intervening time able statisticians and accountants have been picking in pieces the voluminous and complicated accounts, which were gotten up "with intent to deceive," and have brought to light a score of fresh rascalities. Serious as these charges are, and repeated day after day, with fresh ones unrolled every morning, this pack of thieves have been unable to make any pretence of defense. The burglary of the Controller's office, mentioned in our columns, and the alleged robbery of vouchers for 1871 will deceive no one.

Philadelphia Record.

It would be a great pity for us of other cities who have been during three months so intently watching the war against Tammany, to fail to profit by its teachings. The experience of New-York should be sufficient for us, without our being compelled to learn the whole lesson in the same bitter school. Certainly, there are some very cheering circumstances in the affair, one of the foremost being its vivid illustration of the power of the modern press—the measureless strength of even a single able and public-spirited newspaper, which has right on its side, and pluck, skill and indomitable energy for its management. It is true that we soon come upon a second and less cheering lesson, namely, that the worst foes in such a contest as that waged against Tammany are partisan allegiance to palpable wrong and professional jealousy so intense as to blind its possessors to the most outrageous public robberies. Yet, even here, there is a hopeful and encouraging sign in the fact that such obstacles—greater even than the power of the rich and unscrupulous ring—can be overcome by courage and ability, and finally made to tell as helps to the conquering side. Now that this New-York Ring has been broken by sheer "hard pounding," no corrupt political combination in the land, national, State, or municipal, is too powerful to succumb to this same vigorous and well-directed style of campaigning—the Prussian method, so to speak, imported into the service of politics on the side of the people.

Again, as a single-handed attack grew, after long persistence, into a general hue and cry, with whilom defenders of the Controller foremost in the chase, so, following the same logic, there is good reason to suppose that other officials may, in their turn, be deserted by their comrades and hunted down. When rogues fall out honest men get their dues. When once a breach was made in the Ring nothing could fill it up—no device of ousting CONNOLLY or calling on MCCLELLAN; no project to promote STORRS or introduce HILTON; no decision of BARNARD or opinion of O'GORMAN has repaired the Ring defense. After all these expedients, the truth remains, that one of the chief enemies of the Ring is impregnably intrenched in the stronghold of the Controller's Office, to which he is fast letting in the Committee of Seventy and other allies.

Fresh exposure of official frauds may, therefore, be looked for daily, but, of course, the main reliance for purifying the Government must be put in those who went into the task with their whole hearts. It may still suit interested parties to stealthily palliate or defend gross and gigantic frauds, and to try to baffle investigation by ridicule. Onlookers in other cities, who may at no distant day be called on to confront similar plundering combinations at their own doors, can, of course, have no two ways of looking at such an affair. For it has long since passed, as we need hardly say, far out of the domain of party politics, and the honest, public-spirited and intelligent of all parties are directly interested in the punishment of such official crimes. Had the New-York Ring succeeded in buying or bullying the Legislature, and so cowed them or frightened them from their work, the audacity of these shameless plunderers would have had no bounds. Or, even if its enemies were not inveigled or driven from the track, had the guilty officials succeeded in covering up their villainies, impudently defying detection, the tax-payers and property-holders in every city in the country would have had as bitter cause to regret the fact as those of New-York. Plunder would almost everywhere have become still more than now the watchword of municipal politics. In all the large cities, and quite possibly here first in Philadelphia, as being next to New-York in population, the reign of the Ring would have been made supreme.

The Herald's "Influence."

From the Elizabeth (N. J.) Journal.

There is no hope of solid, permanent reform in the City of New-York, unless by the people and through the people. The people must not content themselves in looking on to see what leaders will do for them, they must think and do for themselves. If they will not do this, the very root of the evil of which they complain, will not be reached or removed. They must begin to scrutinize and understand the immense system of humbuggery and corruption which has subjugated them, of which the new Court-house and armories' swindles are mere out-croppings—mere accidental exposures on the surface from a perfect mountain of rottenness within. Let the citizens begin the long course of scrutiny and investigation by considering the true character and influence of the New-York Herald—and if it is evil—rankly evil—in every way injurious—let them consider how they have long nourished and supported, and still continue to pamper it and strengthen the vampire that is sucking their blood.

The Herald is totally destitute of any principle. It aims at nothing save dollars. It veers and turns in every direction to win the popular favor, but solely to deceive and betray it. Everyone knew the Herald would sooner or later come out against the Ring in case it was clear that it could not turn, as it has been trying to do, the popular tide in its favor; but many have had a curiosity to see the fashion of its first "demonstration" against the dispensers of Ring patronage. This "demonstration" comes in a leader in the Herald of Sept. 15. It recognizes at last that "certain men have forfeited the public confidence." It perceives at last "that the people's money has been spent on corrupt and flagrant jobs." It admits "the singularly unfortunate episode of the stolen vouchers." It proceeds to recite, as a "remarkable feature of the New-York City Government, that all political parties, factions, and cliques have been equally responsible for its rascalities and joint shares in the plunder," striking out the word "equally," and it being well understood that the "clique" of the New-York Herald is one of the cliques alluded to, and we see no ground for questioning this last statement.

From this commencement one would suppose the Herald was about to admit its past crimes, and proposed to do what it could to condone them. Not at all. These general statements we have cited are merely adoptions of popular cries to tickle the ears of Reformers and win their respect and sympathy, while it covertly seeks the better by such aid and sympathy to save what it can of the Tammany Ring, and lead the people back to the worship of its idols. To do this it praises the Central Park, (not planned or improved by Tammany, and nearly destroyed by it, and its ventures to add: "The people are delighted to spend their money on such works, and even in this hour of general denunciation SWEENY and HILTON are receiving praises from all sorts of men, for the spirit, efficiency and enterprise they display in beautifying the City." It ventures also to sneer at the "fuss of the last few weeks, which has been mainly made by political adventurers, doing more harm than good by diverting attention from the real points at issue between the citizens and certain of other officials;" and finally it suggests that the friends of reform shall "initiate at once in New-York a new political organization in connection with the Democracy and the Independent Republicans of the rural districts." HALL, SWEENY and BARNARD to be leaders, no doubt!

All this shows, as we submit, too clearly for argument, that the Herald, shrinking from open adverse action, is now merely hoisting reform colors in order the better to deceive the people and embarrass and delay reform; that its secret golden connection with HALL, SWEENY and HILTON is unbroken, and at their behest it is ready, if necessary, to throw CONNOLLY and TWEED overboard; and that it is for the express purpose of saving what can be saved of the Tammany "Ring," and breaking down the reform movement of the people, that it now prates about corruption and cries, "All Hail Reform!" This is in perfect keeping with the character of such a moral and religious paper as publishes sermons and procureses' and abortionists' advertisements in adjoining columns. But must New-York continue indefinitely the patronage and support of such an organ? If so, what a prospect for reform!

From the Commercial Advertiser.

A Pennsylvania editor, who had pored over the Herald's articles about the City frauds until his soul sickened and his flux of language swelled to the proportions of a freshet, seized his pen, and in a fine frenzy commenced an article with the words: "The slobbery slush-gusher of the New-York Herald."

From the Rochester Express.

The New-York Herald is understood to have been in the pay of the "Ring." It still does the dirty work of that organization by characterizing the NEW-YORK TIMES as "an English paper published in New-York." The chief characteristic of the TIMES of late is the fearlessness with which it has exposed the corruptions of the Ring. It will be an unfortunate fact if such qualities are to be characterized as un-American. Certainly, we hope the Herald is not to be taken as the representative American journal.

EXCITEMENT IN WALL-STREET.

Secretary Boutwell Gives the Gold Bulls a Dose of Six Millions—Fall of the Gold Premium.

Yesterday afternoon, about 1 o'clock, the bulls in gold received a dose which reminded them of the portion they took from Secretary BOUTWELL in 1869, when gold fell from 160 to about 130. The Secretary sold $6,000,000 yesterday instead of $2,000,000 as advertised, and thus temporarily knocked the feet from under the cliques who have been for the past two weeks forcing up the premium and squeezing the loan rate for gold. The combinations which have been in existence on the Street for the past two weeks are two in number, and have been organized for two different purposes. A clique has been formed with the object of locking up greenbacks and thereby making money tight, so as to influence the stock market on the bear side. This clique joined hands with a clique in gold whose object was to look up all the cash coin, thereby advancing the premium and compelling borrowers to pay usurious rates for the use of gold. The bear clique in stocks hoped, by keeping up the squeeze on the market, to induce the Secretary of the Treasury to sell at least $4,000,000 of gold yesterday, and thereby withdraw from the banks that amount of greenbacks, which would assist the money squeeze next week. This was the plan, and both cliques worked earnestly for its accomplishment. On Wednesday, the Secretary partially defeated the scheme of the bear clique in stocks by purchasing $3,000,000 of bonds, and putting that amount of legal-tender notes into the banks in payment for them. Yesterday the excitement in the Gold Room was intense, for the operators concluded that the Secretary intended to sell a larger amount of gold than he had advertised to do, and a great number of them went "short" of the article, so that the sum of at least $4,000,000 was discounted in the room. The bull clique were there, prepared for the emergency. At noon, fifty bids, amounting in the aggregate to about $9,000,000, were opened by the Assistant Treasurer, and when it was seen that the average bids were below the market price, the bulls assumed that the Secretary would not sell more than $4,000,000, if he did that, and therefore bid the price up to 114½. About 1½ there were collected in the Sub-Treasury a large throng of operators, anxiously awaiting the announcement of the awards. Suddenly the room was cleared by the proclamation from Mr. WHITE, the cashier, that the Secretary would accept $6,000,000, and a grand rush was made for the Gold Room, which at once became the scene of the most tremendous excitement, almost equaling that of Black Friday, in 1869. The most timid of the bulls were anxious to sell, and lots ranging from $10,000 to $500,000 were offered and taken in a twinkling. Everybody seemed to be selling, and but few were buying, and in consequence the premium dropped, in less than five minutes, to 113⅞, and thereafter fluctuated wildly between that price and 114¾. Changes were so rapid that the Register could scarcely record them, and was obliged to obtain assistance. One moment the price would be up, and another it would fall, and for the space of almost fifteen minutes the fluctuations averaged ten per minute. The centre of the room was packed with a mass of operators, each one yelling himself hoarse and seeking to make himself heard above the din. Some leaped upon the railing of the ring, and with both hands raised, sought to make themselves as prominent that their offers would be heeded, and all were most frantic in their gesticulations. But the principal leaders of the bull movement stood firmly at their posts, and bid for large blocks at one-eighth below the market and took immense sums—one man loading up over $5,000,000 of the gold thrown by discouraged operators. At 1 they had bought an hour before for 114⅛ sold at 114 and retired satisfied, but giving a glance at the indicator as they were going out would return to the contest on finding that the price had advanced to 114¼ and buy again. In this way the excitement continued all the afternoon, and by the time the market was closed the price had reached to 114⅜, and was considered strong at that. There were various rumors about the Street during the late hours of the afternoon regarding Secretary BOUTWELL'S intentions. One was that he would accept the bonds of 1862 in payment of the $6,000,000 gold sold by him yesterday and thus circumvent the schemes of the bears in stocks, who were understood to contemplate a squeeze in money today. Another statement was that the Secretary was all the time during the reading of the bids quietly sitting in the Assistant Treasurer's Room, and thereafter consulted with him respecting the amount which should be awarded. It was ascertained, however, that the Secretary was not within reach of the telegraph yesterday afternoon, and it was said that Assistant Secretary HILLHOUSE acted on instructions received by mail yesterday morning, giving him discretionary power.

The New-York Gas-Light Company Found Guilty of Creating a Nuisance.

A case in which the people were the complainants and the New-York Gas-light Company defendants, came up for hearing before Judge BEDFORD, in the Court of General Sessions, yesterday. The complaint states that from the premises of the defendant, situated in Twenty-first-street and First-avenue, odors issued which were dangerous to the health of the residents of the locality.

Dr. EBENEZER B. BELDEN deposed that he resided in the neighborhood of the New-York Gas Company's works, and that the odor continually issuing therefrom was detrimental to the health of the people of the locality, and also depreciated the value of property. Prof. CHANDLER was examined by the defendants, and testified to the result of a scientific examination he made of the tanks, &c.; he was of opinion that the Company had complied with all modern improvements for the manufacture and purification of gas.

The Company were found guilty of creating a nuisance injurious to the public health, and Judge BEDFORD deferred sentence until Monday next.

The Government Works—Improvements in the Harbor.

The Secretary-of-War and several military and naval officers are expected in the City tomorrow to commence the inspection of the various improvements in the Harbor and vicinity. The various works under the immediate supervision of Gen. NEWTON, have made rapid progress of late. Diamond Reef has been reduced so as to give a depth at low water of twenty feet, and it is probable that when all the débris is removed it will be two feet deeper. The operations on Coenties Reef are also satisfactorily progressing, the rocks having been reduced so that there is even now a depth of twenty feet below the surface. To effect the latter, 3,000 tons of rock have been blasted, 1,000 of which have already been taken away. The work of removing the broken rock goes rapidly forward. When this work is completed, Gen. NEWTON will be asked to dredge a large shoal in the East River, between Ford's Pier, Brooklyn, and Governor's Island. This shoal has an area of 34,000 square yards, and has increased from ashes thrown overboard from steamers.

The Commissioners of Charities and Correction will shortly commence to build a lighthouse at the north end of Blackwell's Island.

The Orange Parade—Resolutions by the Orangemen.

At a meeting of the Supreme Grand Lodge of the American Orange Institution, held in this City on the 9th inst., resolutions were passed thanking the NEW-YORK TIMES and other newspapers, and the merchants of New-York, for defending the right of Orangemen to parade on the 12th of July. Further resolutions were passed deploring the loss of life on that occasion, and thanking Gov. HOFFMAN for the steps taken by him to protect peaceable and law-abiding citizens.

Death of a Lady from an Overdose of Hydrate of Chloral.

Mrs. JOSIE M. WATERBURY, aged thirty, wife of SAMUEL A. WATERBURY, and niece of Ex-Judge NELSON J. WATERBURY, died at her residence, No. 36 West Ninth-street, on Wednesday evening, from an overdose of hydrate of chloral. The deceased lady had been an invalid for several years, and was afflicted with severe nervous headaches, for which she was in the habit of taking a mixture containing a proportion of hydrate of chloral. On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. WATERBURY sent a servant for a quantity of the mixture, and drank about three ounces of it, which contained one or two drachms of the hydrate of chloral, from which death ensued during the evening. Coroner SCHIRMER held an inquest in the case, and a verdict of death from an overdose of hydrate of chloral was rendered.

The Book-Trade Sale—Annual Amount of Sales.

The sale of books was resumed yesterday. SHELDON & Co.'s invoice was gone through, and very fair prices obtained for all classes of books. THEODORE TILTON'S list also commanded good prices. The auctioneer states that about three millions of books are sold annually at the trade sales in Clinton HaH, and that the gross receipts are about $500,000. The receipts at the present sale will probably reach $300,000. The following are some of the books sold and prices obtained yesterday:

"Macaulay's Essays," cloth, $1 10 to $1 25; "Macaulay's History of England," cloth, 90 cents to $1 25; "Life of Rev. G. W. Bethune," $1 25; "Meander's Planting, &c.," $2 15; "Thoiuck on the Gospel of John," $1 10; "Hopkin's Office and Work of the Christian Ministry," $2; "Fleming's Vocabulary of Pallosophy," cloth, $1 30 to $1 40; "Help to the Pulpit," 12mo, cloth, and "Pulpit Tnemes, &c.," 12mo, cloth, $1 17½; "Dagg's Manual of Theology," $2; "Moore's Complete Poetical Works," illustrated, Turkey morocco antique, $4 62½; "Words and Their Uses," by RICHARD GRANT WHITE, 12mo, tinted paper, $1 10 to $1 05; "Polyglot Bible," royal 8vo, roan, embossed, $1 87½ to $1 50, gilt $1 75, Turkey morocco $3; "Bullion's Latin Lexicon," royal 8vo, $3 to $2 80; "The Annotated Paragraph Bible," $4 50 to $4; "Elizabeth Barrett Browning," new edition, Memoir by THEODORE TILTON, 5 volumes, 32mo, blue and gold, 70 cents to 50 cents to 40 cents; same, Aldine edition, 4 volumes, crown 8vo, $1 12½; "The Edina Burns," in morocco, $5; "Clan Tartan," $3 to $7 75; "James Thompson's Poetical Works," edited by CHARLES COWDEN CLARK, 8 volumes, $1 26.

Fatal Railroad Accident—A Messenger of the British Embassy Killed.

An old gentleman named STEIN was run over at Elizabeth by the early Washington train yesterday morning and killed. He was over eighty years old, and for many years had been the messenger of the British Embassy at Washington. He was employed to carry dispatches and Government documents from the Cunard steamers to Washington and back, and had a number of these dispatches upon him when killed. He was returning from Washington, and had spent the night in Elizabeth, intending to reach Jersey City by the early train. In trying to catch the train he fell under the wheels, which passed over his lower limbs. He was removed to the depot, but lived only a few moments. He leaves a wife, living at No. 241 Greenwich-street, New-York.

The New-Jersey Railroad Lease.

The great railroad lease argument, before the Chancellor, was closed yesterday. Judge BLACK, of Pennsylvania, against the lease, made the closing argument. The opinion is reserved to the next term in October.

NOTES FROM THE PEOPLE.

Gen. Tweed and the Commonwealth Receivership.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Having noticed in last Saturday's issue of your valuable journal an interesting article on the "receiver" of the Commonwealth Fire Insurance Company, it occurred to me that possibly you might have unintentionally or unwittingly done the "General" an injustice by the article. I was an agent for several years of the Company, and had occasion after their failure to write the receiver in the interest of the policy-holders in this region, and he having intimated that the unearned premiums on policies surrendered for cancellation would be returned at short rates, I ventured to suggest to him that, in my opinion, they should be returned pro rata, in justice to the policy-holders. In reply to my suggestion, the inclosed impudent letter was returned by the direction of the receiver. It will be seen from the letter that the "General" claims to know his duty to the policy-holders! May we not hope that he also knows his duty to the stock-holders, and knowing his duty will do it by closing up the affairs of the Company as speedily as possible, and pay over to the stock-holders all that the assets will admit of, after deducting a reasonable sum for expenses—which should not amount to more than $5,000 to $6,000 all told, including his "fees"—thus leaving thirty-five to forty per cent. dividend to be paid the stock-holders?

INSURANCE.

NEW-YORK, Wednesday, Sept. 20, 1871.

[COPY.]

NEW-YORK, May 11, 1871.

Messrs. * * * *

GENTLEMEN: Yours of the 9th with inclosures received.

Your remarks with reference to canceled policies and the action of the receiver in the premises, are considered quite impertinent by him, and he instructs me to say that he, at least, knows his duty to the policy-holders of this Company, and does not desire the advice of agents in the matter.

His action is to protect them, (the policy-holders,) and to close the business in such manner as will give the honest creditors their just dues, without reference to whether agents make commissions twice over on their customers or not.

Trusting this explanation will have a tendency in future, in your correspondence with this office, to retain your advice for a "home market," I am respectfully yours,

H. E. SCHAFT,

For receiver of Commonwealth Insurance Company.

Brown-Stone Fronts for the Park Commission.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

For several months past much work has been going on at Madison-square, as you are aware. Especially has the work of stone-cutting and dressing been prosecuted very extensively on the Madison-avenue side. Besides the ordinary gray and blue stone used in pavement and curb, much brown stone, such as is used on house-fronts, was to be seen in process of being cut and dressed. Of late this brown stone has disappeared from the premises. Query—What members of the Ring got the stone for their houses dressed at the public expense? A prompt reply is earnestly desired by a CITIZEN.

NEW-YORK, Wednesday, Sept. 20, 1871.

Will This Pay?

From the Utica Morning Herald, Sept. 20.

Republicans have been accustomed to expect fair treatment from the New-York Tribune. They see now from day to day in its columns exhibitions of bitter temper and savage animosities. Even these cannot excuse the misrepresentation of notorious facts. Here, where the facts about the Convention for the First District of this county are notorious, such absurdities as the editorial statement of the Tribune, yesterday, only lead people to inquire if this is a sample of the manner in which that journal treats Republicans not only, but the truth?

The delegation headed by Senator CONKLING was duly elected by a majority of delegates at a regular convention, conforming in all respects to precedent and party usage. Senator CONKLING did no act that on any pretext excuses the Tribune's slang of this sort:

"He marched out of the hall at the head of his beaten minority, set up his rebellious tabernacle at another place, and elected himself and two others to the Convention, and then sent through the Associated Press a report of the proceedings stigmatizing the majority as bolters."

The Tribune will not act fairly toward Senator CONKLING. It cannot afford, however, to manufacture its facts, and to hold him responsible for acts that were never committed at all.

Portrait of the "Artful Dodger."

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In your efforts for Municipal reform you have begun a good work. You have drawn blood, and I congratulate you most heartily. You have vanquished the two great generals of the enemy—the greater general, general apathy, and the lesser general, general opposition—but you have only begun the good work.

We are told that the frauds of the "Ring" (too gross and palpable for denial) were committed under cover of the law. Exactly so. And who planned the laws under which they were committed? Who negotiated the passage of the laws, and who appointed the willing tools to execute them? Who was it when the Young Democracy were rampant, when WM. M. TWEED, bullied in the Senate Chamber, threatened with assassination and driven to desperation by the taunts and threats of his enemies on every side, offered to resign the reigns of power? When RICHARD B. CONNOLLY was upon the fence encouraging the ins and making friends with the outs, visiting the Jackson Club, the stronghold of the enemy, under cover of the night, and preparing to drop into the arms of the successful party?

When OAKEY HALL—knowing that he could not go before the people again for re-election—was begging for a lucrative appointment to enable him to live with "parsimonious economy," when a majority of the warriors surrounded the Department of Docks.

At the meeting of the Commissioners of Docks, yesterday, the communications of MILTON KNAPP, in reference to the removal of the elevator at Pier No. 7, East River; of D. D. & T. SMITH, in reference to the order to dredge and repair the bulkhead on the north side of Harrison-street, and of C. H. MARSHALL & Co., in reference to the condition of Pier No. 23, East River, were referred to the Executive Committee. W. B. & W. L. SKIDMORE were granted fifteen days' extension of time in repairing and dredging the bulkhead at the foot of Franklin-street. The Secretary was directed to make a summary of the report of Gen. MCCLELLAN in regard to the obstructions at Pier No. 21, North River, and forward it to the Superintendent of Markets. The Board subsequently adjourned.

THURSDAY, Sept. 21—P. M.

The Secretary of the Treasury today relieved the Gold market by the sale of $6,000,000, in place of the regular sum of $2,000,000 advertised for this day. The gross amount bid for was $8,895,000. The accepted bids were at rates varying from 115.01 ₱ cent. down to 113.90 ₱ cent. The $2,895,000 bids declined rau from 113.90 ₱ cent. down to 112 ₱ cent. The action of the Secretary is both commendable and timely, as an advance of Interest this morning by the Bank of England from 2 ₱ cent. to 3 ₱ cent. per annum, and lower quotations for the American Funds in London, would have aggravated the already unpleasant state of things here, if the scarcity of Gold had continued. As it is, the Exchanges on Europe are relieved of the dead-lock of the past week or ten days, and although the price of Gold has not been materially affected by the larger sale of the Treasury, there is a reasonable prospect that the supplies on the market for the next few days, and until the next weekly sale by the Treasury, will render all transactions among the Merchants requiring the use of Gold, such as the payment of Customs and purchase and sale of Exchange, reasonably easy.

The sale of $6,000,000 Gold, as against $3,000,000 United States 5-20s purchased by the Treasury, is construed on the Stock Exchange as drawing about $3,500,000 Greenbacks from the Banks, thereby weakening their lawful Money basis. But, on the other hand, it must be borne in mind that $6,000,000 in Gold Notes are let loose, constituting, equally with Greenbacks, the lawful Money basis at Bank; and, even assuming that the whole of these Gold Notes may not pass directly into Bank, there is every reason to believe that the Treasury having no other present use for the Greenback Notes than the extra purchase of United States 5-20s, the latter will return to Bank in the course of a few days.

There is also the possibility that a further supply of Gold Notes (or Gold itself, if wanted, which is not at all probable in the present condition of the Exchanges) will be thrown upon the market by discounting at the Treasury a portion of the 5-20s of 1862, advertised to be redeemed on the 1st of December, if presented for prepayment.

The moderate shipments of Gold to this side announced from London in the last few days have probably had a share in influencing the action of the Bank of England this morning. The movement of Gold this way, so contrary to a healthy state of Exchange between the two countries, is wholly exceptional, and has grown out of the protracted scarcity of Gold outside the Treasury here and the consequent depression of Exchange to points which would seem to pay the Banker to import Gold. The same thing occurred in September, 1869, and to a much larger amount than is now probable. But the Bank of England management knowing that engagements had been entered into in London and on the Continent to pay a considerable sum in Gold as well as in United States 5-20s, for our New Loan by the first of December, was probably apprehensive that the present shipments have some relation to the recent negotiation.

Exchange has advanced to 108¾@108¾ for sixty days London and 109@109¼ short sight. There is some appearance of a better business than for several packets past, for the steamers of Saturday.

Money is up to 7 ₱ cent. as the rule among the Brokers, with exceptions at 6 ₱ cent. to the leading houses. The Banks are generally charging 7 ₱ cent. The apprehension that the Treasury operations may lock up Greenbacks, which, as explained above, we believe to be premature, has imparted firmness to Money, and weakness to speculation in the Railways and Miscellaneous Stocks at the Stock Exchange. The Southern State Bonds are also weaker, and the Railway Mortgages less steady than early in the week. The Public Funds are comparatively steady, with only a moderate business. The sales of Gold, in the Gold Room, fell on the Treasury award to 114@113¾, but soon rallied to 114¼@114¾ ₱ cent. The deliveries of Cash Gold were easy.

The Stock Exchange, after the last Boards, was feverish, at the lower prices of the morning, for the Railways, &c., and after some heavy sales of Western Telegraph, Pacific Mail, Union Pacific, Lake Shore and New-York Central. The last-named stock yielded less than the Western Roads. The following quotations were made as compared with Wednesday night. Gold left off steady; Exchange firm. In Money, at the very close, the rates were irregular, a few transactions reported below 6 ₱ cent.; others at 6@7 ₱ cent. There has been some talk for several days past about a lock-up of Greenbacks by the Bearish Interest in the Stock market, but the extent of the operation, if seriously going on, cannot be estimated until after the Bank return of Saturday next.

We are informed that the Gold sent to Canada by the Bank of Montreal a few days ago was not to make Gold scarcer in the open market here, but in answer to a demand for Gold at Montreal, where Money has suddenly advanced in value. The agents of the Bank assure us that their operations here are "conducted on sound, legitimate and lawful principles alone and are in no way mixed up with cliques or combinations."

Earnings of the St. Paul Road for second week September, 1871:

1870	$176,297
1871	172,971
Decrease	$3,326

The London Times reports of the British Export Trade for August:

"The Board of Trade returns for the past month are of a character more remarkable than any yet presented. The declared value of our exportations has reached the wholly unprecedented amount of £22,221,245, being an increase of £4,804,162, or 30 ₱ cent., on the corresponding month of last year, when the war between France and Germany was at its height, and of 26 ₱ cent. on August, 1869, when there was nothing to disturb the general prosperity. The animation has doubtless been partly stimulated by the shipments to France in order to anticipate the possible imposition in some cases of augmented duties, but every branch of business has shared in the movement, the only material instance of a decrease being in the shipments of telegraphic wire and apparatus, which, although they figure for the large total of £378,478, have been less by £160,806 than in the same month of 1870."

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

☞ FIRST MORTGAGE SINKING FUND LAND-GRANT BONDS OF THE ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER CITY RAILROAD COMPANY,

IN DENOMINATIONS OF $1,000, $500, AND $100, can now be had from the undersigned or through the principal banks and bankers of the United States. The attention of investors is invited to the merits of these bonds, secured by a first and only mortgage on the road, equipments, franchises, and property of a trunk line of railroad which will shorten the distance between New-York and San Francisco some 230 miles, and in addition the mortgage to secure the bonds covers a land-grant of 1,500,000 acres of the most fertile land in the West, which is prohibited from being sold at less than four ($4) dollars per acre by the terms of the mortgage deed, and according to the present market price of the Illinois Centra, Company's lands is worth $18,750,000. This loan was originally for $5,500,000, but has been largely reduced by subscriptions of actual investors. The remaining balance of the loan is offered at 97½ and accrued interest, but the right is reserved to advance the price at any time, with out notice.

The bonds have thirty years to run; bear 8 per cent. interest, payable in New-York, London or Frankfort-on-the-Main, at the option of the holder, without notice, free of taxes. BOTH PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST ARE PAYABLE IN GOLD. They are Coupon Bonds, but can be registered with the coupons ON, or can be registered with the coupons OFF, and interest paid to registered owner. Interest payable Aug. 15 and Feb. 15. A liberal sinking fund, formed from the entire land sales, in payment for which the bonds will be received at par and accrued interest, provides for the early extinguishment of this loan.

Trustees—Farmers' Loan and Trust Company.

These bonds offer favorable inducements to parties desiring to fund their Five-Twenties or other high-priced securities.

In converting Five-Twenties the inves tors realize 17 per cent. profit on the principal; 2 per cent. per annum excess of interest; and at the same time get a perfect security.

Maps, circulars, documents, and full information furnished on application.

Though acting as agents for the sale of this loan, our firm buy and sell in their regular business the bonds of the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad Company, those of the Eastern Division being now quoted at 102 and accrued interest. These were originally placed by us at 97½.

☞ WINSLOW, LANIER & CO.,
No. 27 PINE-STREET,

Offer for sale, at 90 cents and accrued interest in currency, and recommend as an investment of the most undoubted character, the 7 Per Cent. Bonds of the GRAND RAPIDS AND INDIANA RAILROAD COMPANY. They have 30 years to run, principal and interest payable in gold, coupon or registered, interest October and April. They are secured by a first mortgage on 220 miles of finished road and 100 miles more in progress, and on a Land Grant of one million one hundred and sixty thousand acres of lumber land in Northern Michigan. The road extends from Fort Wayne, where it connects with the extensive system of roads centering at that point, northerly, and having been finished through the rich agricultural region of Southern and Central Michigan, has now penetrated the Land Grant. The lands have been recently put upon the market, and are being rapidly sold. By the terms of the mortgage the proceeds of the land must be invested by the Trustees in the purchase of the Bonds, which insures their constant repurchase from the holders. This Land Grant is estimated to be worth $12,000 000, and is probably more available for immediate sale than any other Land Grant ever made to any company. The whole issue is Eight Million Dollars, of which more than six millions have been disposed of. This road is run as a connection of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, and the Pennsylvania Railroad, and has the powerful support of those companies and their numerous affiliated lines. These Bonds have been sold in large lines to the most prudent investors.

☞ CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD SIX PER CENT. BONDS.

HARVEY FISK. A. S. HATCH.

OFFICE OF FISK & HATCH, BANKERS AND DEALERS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES, No. 5 NASSAU-ST., NEW-YORK, Sept. 15, 1871.

The amount of these bonds remaining unsold is now so small, and the demand continues so great, that we expect soon to close out the remainder of the loan. They are issued in sums of $1,000, $500 and $100 each, either coupon or registered; interest payable May and November, interest and principal payable in coin in New-York City.

Holders of United States Sixes of 1881, Ten-Forties, and especially Five-Twenties, can largely increase their capital (17 to 25 per cent.) and income by exchanging for these bonds

The New-York Times,

DAILY, WEEKLY AND SEMI-WEEKLY.

This journal is now thoroughly identified with the greatest political necessity of the hour—uncompromising warfare against all forms of corruption, whether in national or local government. For years past the TIMES has been exposing the demoralizing schemes of self-interested politicians, and its recent warfare upon the Tammany Democrats has been received with universal approval. It has adhered to the pledge given in its original prospectus, more than twenty years ago, that the public should be truly represented, and their interests faithfully guarded through its columns. Its record has been pure and honorable, and the highest aim of its proprietors is to render it more and more worthy of its past history, and of the confidence which the public repose in it. Two out of three of the original proprietors still direct its policy, and guide it on all public questions. They purpose that the TIMES shall continue to keep clear of all narrow and unworthy influences and cliques, and aim to represent the great body of the public, as distinguished from personal factions. It occupies a perfectly independent position, and is free to speak the truth on all subjects and about all men. Its greatly increased circulation throughout the country adds to its power and influence. It will continue to be a faithful exponent of Republican principles, and advocate with untiring energy every cause which tends to further the welfare of the people.

The utmost care will be devoted to gathering political news from special sources during the Presidential canvass. This department of the paper will be unusually full and trustworthy. Renewed enterprise will be exhibited in every department of the paper, and large space will be devoted to reports of speeches made during elections, or on other important political occasions.

A very full summary of news, and many general articles of great interest, are published in the Semi-weekly editions; and in the Weekly edition there is an unabridged report of the proceedings at the Farmers' Club, an excellent summary of political information, and a great variety of matter suitable for family reading.

The NEW-YORK TIMES is pre-eminently a family paper, all objectionable advertisements being rigidly excluded; and it has a constantly increasing circulation among the most respectable classes of the community.

They are to have an examination today.....The Union League Club held an important meeting last night in relation to the City frauds. Decisive action was agreed upon....Agents have been appointed to superintend the removal of the North Carolina Cherokees to the Indian Territory....The Hudson, N. Y., Vigilance Committee publish a long list of grave charges against Father O'SULLIVAN, against whom his congregation has rebelled.

Why Not Strike at the Masters?

The story of the stolen vouchers is told in full today. But it must be read partly between the lines. HAGGERTY, who took away and destroyed the documents, is TWEED'S right-hand man. He was to have been arrested yesterday and carried before Judge LEDWITH, where justice would have been sure and prompt. But this design became noised about, and Superintendent KELSO, in the interests of the Boss, took HAGGERTY before Judge DOWLING. Superintendent KELSO is the brother-in-law of CORNELIUS CORSON—the Chief of the Bureau of Elections, Superintendent of the New-York Printing Company, and Secretary of TWEED'S Committee on Municipal Affairs in the Senate. It will thus be seen that the affair is kept carefully "in the family." KELSO owes his position as Police Superintendent to W. M. TWEED. It is still believed by the Ring that they can manipulate justice to suit themselves, and that the public will stand by and look on.

Is this farce to be endured? There is this man TWEED, proved to have been largely concerned in enormous frauds in the public Treasury, having the insolence to concoct public meetings and receptions, and even publishing a paper devoted exclusively to the advocacy of his "cause," while he stands in the pillory before the public as a rascal. His tool goes to jail, while he is free to carry on what the World described as his beastly orgies, in the grand houses which he has bought and paid for out of the people's money. He is making his preparations for the elections just as if nothing had occurred to disturb him. He goes on in utter contempt of public opinion. HALL does precisely the same. Here is a bit of his talk with a reporter on Tuesday:

REPORTER—You are looking very well.

The MAYOR—O yes, I am always cheerful. You know the true philosophy of life is to take things just as they come. How was the clever definition of—let me see, I forget his name—of life? What is mind? No matter. What is matter? Never mind. That's my philosophy. * * Now, today I call a lost day, seeing everybody and doing no work. But then I did that only because my trying to keep myself shut up has made some of my newspaper enemies come out with a rumor that I was insane, mad, and all that, you know. That's the only reason why I did it, I assure you. (Desperately.) It's a day entirely lost! (Rallying.) Well, I could have evaded the reporters today, if I had wanted to—(and he whispered to the reporter: "I have three ways here to get out of this office, and no one knows it.") You excuse me, I just want to wash my hands.

REPORTER—(While the Mayor was washing his hands)—Thank you, Mr. HALL. Good day.

The MAYOR—(politely flourishing the soap as the reporter passed out under the American flag)—Au revoir. Good day."

The quality vulgarly called "cheek" is developed in these men to a degree hitherto unheard of. They put all their faith in being able to live over next election day. Then, by enormous ballot-box frauds, they will secure themselves in office, go to the Legislature with a million or two in their hands, buy a measure through, legalizing all their transactions, and calmly take what boys call a "sight" at the public. That is the programme. TWEED told a deputation which saw him only yesterday that the storm "would soon blow over." His man HAGGERTY is in prison. Why should not TWEED be there too? Is the lackey more guilty than the master?

Heaven knows the Committee of Seventy are showing no lack of "caution." They never will get into a scrape through acting with energy and promptness. Any old stage-coach in a deep rut would move faster. Too many cooks spoil the broth, says the homely proverb, and this Committee seem destined to give another proof of its truth. We know that its difficulties must be great, but why on earth does it not do something? What is the good of meeting every day, and putting their heads solemnly together, and having a good talk, and then going to sleep for another twenty-four hours? Is the present agitation to be prolonged until election day? If so, the thieves may yet prove too knowing for this most able, talented, respectable, but dreadfully slow and ponderous Committee. We know all about the wisdom of "making haste slowly." No doubt the Committee could give eloquent reasons for sucking their thumbs and looking on a little while longer. They want to make quite sure, and so on. But that is not what the people look to them for. They wish to see a decisive blow struck, and now is the time to strike it. Is it not proved that TWEED and his brother thieves have willfully misappropriated large sums of public money? They can be brought to justice for that. If the slow-coach Committee will not move, HALL and his fellow rogues will. They don't tuck their heads under their wings and snooze away their time. So far, we cannot ascertain that the Committee has done anything worth a rush. As matters are going on now, the Ring can go on till doomsday so far as the Committee is concerned. Let us hear something better than words from these gentlemen. Don't be content with catching this creature HAGGERTY—go for the Boss at once, and let us see what explanation he can give of his deeds before a Court of justice. If GARVIN did his duty, he would indict HALL without another hour's delay, under the new charter itself. If Mr. GARVIN declines, is there no one else willing to try whether or not justice can be executed on these criminals?

The City and County Debt.

The statement of the debt of the City and County, prepared by the Aldermen, Supervisors' and Citizens' Committee, will be found in another column, accompanied by the brief but clear report of the Chairman of the Subcommitttee, Mr. WM. H. OSBORNE. In regard to this statement, our readers will remember that Mr. OSBORNE distinctly notes that no one can tell the amount of outstanding claims against the City beyond the amount given in the statement. The Department of Parks, for instance, on Wednesday published the fact that it was in arrears some four hundred thousand dollars, and that nearly a million dollars of its requisitions had not yet been honored. The Department of Docks, also, at a meeting held yesterday, announced that on the 28th day of August last a letter was sent to the Controller, inclosing a requisition for half a million of dollars. This letter evidently had not been responded to, as the proper officer was directed to send a copy of it again to the Controller. These are significant indications of what burdens lie on the shoulders of the taxpayers, the weight of which cannot now be ascertained.

Remembering this, what does the statement show to be the sum of the interest-bearing debt of the City and County of New-York, and at what rate has that debt increased since Jan. 1, 1869—thirty-two and one-half months? The statement shows the interest-bearing debt to be, at its date, Sept. 14, 1871, ninety-seven and one-fourth millions ($97,287,525.) On the 1st of January, 1869, it was about thirty-six and one-fourth millions ($36,293,929.) The increase, therefore, is sixty-one millions ($60,993,595 44.) In other words, in two years, eight months and one-half the interest-bearing debt, which is a mortgage on the property of the citizens of New-York, has been multiplied two and two-thirds times.

There are two features connected with the debt, quite as significant as its mere increase, enormous as that is. We find that in the first nine months of this year the Finance Department has raised, by means of the sale of permanent and temporary bonds, $26,000,000. Of this sum, on the 14th of September there was remaining only $2,564,306 90, showing an expenditure for eight months and fourteen days of $23,435,693 10. Nor can we flatter ourselves that these expenditures have been for the ordinary cost of the Government, which will be repaid when the taxes are collected. The entire amount of the taxes for this year will be required to pay some $23,000,000 of short bonds—a sort of municipal due-bills, in fact—which fall in during the next three or four months. The simple fact is, that the City has been plunged so recklessly and rapidly into debt, by long bonds and short ones, consolidated stock, revenue bonds and heterogeneous claims, that when the citizen of New-York pays his taxes this Fall, he can only know that he is throwing his money into a pit, which, but for the interference of the people, would have proved bottomless, and whose dimensions it is still impossible to accurately define.

In the second place, we note here the appearance for the first time in public of certain gold-bearing six per cent. City bonds, sold at 104¼. What does this mean? When were these bonds issued? Are they consolidated stock? Was there any public bidding for them? Why were they disposed of at ten per cent. less than the market value of United States Government bonds bearing like interest? These and a score of other at present unanswerable questions are suggested by Mr. OSBORNE'S statement and report. They show that the community is still fearfully in the dark as to the conduct of the financial administration of the City and County of New-York.

Work for the Seventy.

Last night's meeting of the Union League Club demonstrated how fully the popular indignation against Municipal robbery is shared by men representing the wealth, culture, and character of New-York. The people's demand for justice was clearly echoed by this influential assemblage, and the generally approved remedies against corruption were very justly expressed in the speeches and resolutions which received the assent and awakened the enthusiasm of the meeting. The practical measures advocated by the Union League Club, are, briefly as follows. The City Charter must be remodeled; party issues must be ruled out of Municipal elections; the purity and fairness of these elections must be secured by proper guarantees; accounts must be open to public inspection, and the officials intrusted with public duties must be held directly responsible for their mode of discharging them; the men who have stolen public money must be compelled to disgorge it and must receive punishment commensurate with the magnitude of their crime. The first of these suggestions demands time and deliberation, the second expresses an opinion on which all honest men are now acting; the third can only be effected after the present infamous gang are swept out of power, and the two last express the conviction and the intention which underlie the conduct of the great struggle in which we are engaged. These ideas found eloquent defenders and competent expositors in Dr. THOMPSON, Mr. GEO. C. BARRETT and others. The Committee of Seventy is the body to which the Union League Club, in common with the rest of the people, look for carrying them into execution.

Every day furnishes fresh evidence to guide this Committee in their work of carrying out the universal demand for retribution and reconstruction. We give in another column, some new facts on which immediate action ought to be taken. In the list of warrants abstracted from the Controller's office by the late County Auditor, there occurs in four different places the name of Messrs. G. L. SCHUYLER & Co., lumber dealers. This well-known and respectable firm is represented as having furnished between August, 1868, and April, 1870, lumber for the use of various City Departments to the amount of $463,037, and as having been duly paid for the same. From the letter of the head of the firm it will be seen that the sum actually charged for and received by G. L. SCHUYLER & Co. was $48,510 44, leaving a balance, which has been stolen under cover of their name, of $414,526 56. From our reporter's conversation with Mr. SCHUYLER, it will be noted that in order to obtain payment of their bills, the firm was obliged to leave blank assignments of their claims with WATSON, the County Auditor. Forgery and perjury will account for the rest. The vouchers have conveniently disappeared, but the books in the Controller's office will show to whom the money was paid, and the records of the Tenth National Bank ought to show who indorsed the checks. Fortunately for the ends of justice, the Controller's Department is under the charge of a gentleman whom the Union League Club resolution rightly designates as "a good citizen and an upright man." Mr. SCHUYLER'S affidavit is ready, and the Controller's books are open to the representatives of the people. WATSON is dead, but the men whose tool he was are alive. Within twenty-four hours this palpable felony ought to be brought home to them or their agents. The public are sick of hearing of burglary, theft, and perjury while the principal criminals are still at large. Let the Committee of Seventy depute the immediate prosecution of this case to a small body of determined and active men, and they will fully merit the hearty indorsement given them last evening, and will earn the continued confidence of the public.

Which Story Are We to Believe?

We believe the public are sick and tired of the quarrels within the Republican camp, but unfortunately the Tribune persists in keeping up the controversy, and if all its assertions were allowed to pass unchallenged, they might be assumed to be true. It would be useless to argue against the Tribune's positions, and the best course is to let it convict itself out of its own mouth. The question at issue is this: Can men who were appointed by the Tammany Ring, especially to serve that Ring, be esteemed good and trustworthy Republicans? We say emphatically no—and we would turn all such men out of place and office. The Tribune argues on the other side, but it took the sounder view once, and this is all we care to show at present.

On April 12, 1870, after the charter went into effect, the Tribune used this explicit language:

"We hereby give public notice that no Republicans have been appointed on these Commissions—that is, none whom TWEED does not with reason expect to be more serviceable in office to him and his party than any Democrat could be. * * * The pretense that certain Commissions are filled in part with Republicans is a fraud. Every Board has been organized with full intent to strengthen the Tammany Democracy to the utmost, and enable the Ring to carry the State next Fall for HOFFMAN, if possible—if it be deemed impossible, for some one else. Our friends throughout the State must no longer be duped by these chameleons who talk Republicanism only to betray, and we now ask the Republican General Committee to exclude from its councils all who have taken or shall hold office under the sway of Tammany Hall. So long as any of these remain in our Committees we shall continue to be betrayed into the hands of our enemies."

On June 7, 1870, it said: "Yesterday the last vestige of Republicanism, in a party sense, passed away from the City Government, and Tammany Democracy took complete possession of all authority in our local Government. * * * Except in the agreement concerning the Police and the Central Park, the Republicans have no more power in local affairs than the Emperor of China. Tammany has everything; her retainers fill all the offices."

And on Oct. 14, 1870, referring particularly to the only office not reorganized under the new charter, it said:

"A number of men, holding office in the Tax Commission and other branches of the City Government, likewise have places on Republican Committees, or in other responsible posts in our organization. * * * But the Republicans who hold office at the mere will of Tammany Hall are differently situated. Their official life depends on their giving satisfaction to those who appoint them. They cannot do this and give satisfaction likewise in places of trust to the party to which they profess to belong. Ye cannot serve God and Mammon. Gentlemen holding office at the will of Tammany, in Tax Commissions or elsewhere! we call on you to resign your places under Tammany, or your places on Republican Committees!"

It being then admitted that the leading spirits in the organization which uses Mr. GREELEY as its figure-head, hold positions under Tammany, and that they are subject to its control, we claim that men of whom this is true, are not entitled to be leaders in the Republican Party, and that an organization which puts them forward, and is controlled by them, is not entitled to the confidence of the Republican Party of the State. The passages we have already quoted show what the Tribune thought upon this subject within a year.

The passages quoted are only some of many which graced its columns, till Mr. GREELEY fell under the malign influence which now controls him, and compels him to turn his back upon his whole record. Thus, on May 21, 1870, the Tribune said:

"If it were laid down as a rule that no person who holds office under Tammany should be an officer of a Republican Association, we should do a good deal to purify our politics. But if Tammany is to 'run' not only our Legislature to pass its charter, but our County Conventions to nominate or refuse to nominate, as Tammany chooses, and our Ward Associations to distribute or withhold votes at its beck, it is time that we knew it."

And a week later, returning to the subject, it said:

"We must cut off the Tammany Republicans who bear our flag the better to aid our enemy, who seize upon the posts of trust in our Committees and issue the mandates of Tammany in our name to our voters, who find their reward in Tammany appointments and Tammany contracts, and who raise the loudest screams against any organization of the honest men of this City against the Ring, which shall throw them out of power."

A month previously, on April 12, 1870, it referred to certain gentlemen by name, two of whom are now prominent in Mr. GREELEY'S Committee, while the third had the wisdom to take the Tribune's advice. It then said:

"We ask but one favor of our City's master, (Mr. TWEED,) and that is but simple justice. We ask him to take his hand off the Republican Party organization. It is not manly—nay, it is not honest political warfare—to buy and bribe the men who profess to represent in our Committees the Republican voters of the Metropolis. We do not object to Messrs. HENRY SMITH, RUFUS F. ANDREWS, CHARLES S. SPENCER & Co. earning any money or patronage that the Tammany Ring may have to bestow, if they will honestly proclaim that they are working in its interest and earning its wages, but it is not fair that they should do its work in Republican Conventions and before committees of the Legislature, claiming all the time to be speaking the sentiments and struggling for the ascendency of the Republican Party."

The facts we have given are not to be brushed aside by an appeal to any one's record. They are not to be evaded by raising any false issue. They are not to be dodged by any cry of "FENTON and CONKLING." If the friends of either one of these gentlemen happen to be found chiefly on one side of this question or the other, it is their good or bad fortune, as the case may be. But that is not the issue. The issue is one which is above men and above factions. It concerns vitally the success of the Republican Party in the State and nation. It is, briefly, the question whether, in the grand army which is fighting Tammany and the Democratic Party, men shall be leaders whose daily bread is derived from Tammany and the Democratic Party.

Sudden Panic in the Park Commission.

Since ANDREW H. GREEN took possession of the Controller's office, his associates of the Park Commission have all at once discovered that there is an immediate and pressing demand for large sums of money to carry on the public works. According to HILTON'S letter to the Controller, published in yesterday's TIMES, there was due for labor, for the two weeks ending on Saturday last, the sum of $113,000, and the laborers are clamoring for their pay. It appears also, from his communication, that the Park Commissioners have had great difficulty, for three months past, in getting their drafts on the Controller honored; but they made no fuss about it then, and appear to have managed to get along without any commotion or panic among the men in their employ. Now, however, the situation is changed. The man who may be called the father of the Central Park, but who, since PETER B. SWEENY stole his laurels and put the Park under "Ring" management, has been uniformly snubbed by his associates in the Commission, is now in charge of the City Treasury, and suddenly there comes a demand from HILTON for a heavy sum of money to pay off the poor laborers. The public is not so blind as not to see through this trick of HILTON, SWEENY, and TOM FIELDS to try and excite the laborers on the public works against the new head of the Finance Department. But it will fail of its design. When Mr. GREEN took possession of the Controller's office, he found there was not a cent left in the Treasury out of the twenty-six millions of dollars that the Ring have raised on the bonds of the City since the 1st of January. Mr. GREEN will raise sufficient money on his own personal credit with the banks to pay the laborers what is due them, but the people will demand that there shall be retrenchment and economy in the Park Commission for the future, and that the City shall receive an equivalent for the money it expends on the public works, as it used to do when Mr. GREEN was at the head of the Commission.

HILTON'S communication to the Controller shows that in a little over two months—from June 9 to Aug. 18 of the present year—the Park Commission made requisitions on the Controller for eleven hundred thousand dollars, or at the rate of over six millions for the year. To be sure, they were unable to make the Controller respond to their drafts for the full amount, and had to content themselves during four months with two hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars. It seems that there were so many thieves clamoring for their "rakes," that CONNOLLY could not manufacture bonds fast enough to supply them all with the ready money, and some of them had to wait. The Park Commission appears to have waited patiently enough until Mr. GREEN became Controller, but they can't wait any longer—not another day. Now, as there is no money in the Treasury, we apprehend they will have to wait, and while Mr. GREEN will take care that the laborers who have already performed work for the City are not allowed to suffer through the criminality of their employers, it will be well for HILTON, SWEENY, and TOM FIELDS to take in sail for the present, until they see whether the storm that is now beating on the heads of themselves and their confederates is going to "blow over." In other words, whether they like it or not, necessity will compel them, for the present, to retrench the expenditures on the public works. The people can afford to forego any additions to those little flower-gardens and patches of green sward which the Commissioners have been cultivating about the City, until they have a chance to look after their stolen money. When they have recovered that, and got the thieves securely lodged in prison, they may be ready to resume expenditures on the parks; but the chances are that they will have concluded, by that time, to dispense with the services of HILTON, SWEENY, and TOM FIELDS.

A Neglected Duty.

Now or never is the time for the erection of a statue to Hon. WILLIAM M. TWEED. But why has it been left until now? Wherefore this unbecoming delay? Are republics forever to be ungrateful? This great project, which distinguished the donors even more than the recipient of the honor, was brought forward in a published letter to Mr. TWEED from some eminent and wealthy citizens, including two Judges of two of our highest Courts. Their feelings at the present day are to be envied. But again we ask, are judges and dignitaries to be easily deterred from proper recognition of the eminent public services (we believe that was the phrase) of such a man to the City and to the State? True, there was, we remember, something like a refusal on Mr. TWEED'S part. But surely, this could not have checked their ardor. What less could have been expected from a person of Mr. TWEED'S coyness, modesty, and reserve? CÆSAR thrice refused the crown—put it away from him, indeed; and yet he afterward accepted it. And shall our great leader be allowed to lack due honor because of his retiring nature? Public regret for the neglect, which we deplore, will be tempered and softened by the reflection that the honor can be paid now, while TWEED stands before the people crowned with all the glory which attaches to a system of which he is the acknowledged author and finisher, and which has given us not only himself, but a SWEENY, a HALL, and a CONNOLLY.

As steps will be immediately taken to atone for past neglect by the erection of a statue of much larger proportions and more elaborate design than was at first proposed, we offer, under favor, a few suggestions to the Committee of judges and capitalists who will take the matter in hand. The statue and the bas-reliefs will, of course, be of brass. The materials may be found in the Department of Public Works, and if that large supply should fail, the lack can be more than made up from the Mayor's office. The principal figure should be standing, draped in a toga, both on account of its becomingness to Mr. TWEED'S figure, and as expressive of his Roman virtue. It might be fitly supported by Genius and Labor, the former in the person of our minstrel Mayor, and the latter in that of our best representative of honest toil, the Head of the Department of Public Parks. The first bas-relief should represent the honest mechanic, the chair-maker, seated upon a dilapidated specimen of his own handiwork, meditating his rise into public life. The second should show him as the hero, Big Six, struggling with the Fire-fiend. We should then see him as the honest Supervisor, with one hand in the City Treasury, securing its contents from every other touch, and with the other buttoning his trousers pocket lest by chance any of the money should slip in unawares. Let him in the next appear as "Big Weasel," the great Tammany Sachem—a bloody tomahawk in his hand, and hanging at his belt the scalps of the leaders of the Young Democracy. The editor of the World, his pen in one hand, and a full purse in the other, kneels at his feet. In the next compartment we should see him as the Deliverer of the State. Let this composition be taken from the well-known scene in "Pizarro," in which Rolla saves the child. Let Mr. TWEED bear in one hand a ballot-box, (stuffed,) and on his arm a child, emblematic of the State, to be personated by JOHN T. HOFFMAN, for this occasion only. Next we should see him as MÆCENAS rewarding merit. In this compartment our minstrel Mayor again appears, kneeling at the feet of his benefactor, who gives, him money from a bag labeled New-York City. Another compartment should show him as the friend of the Fenians, a dudeen in the band of his hat, and a shillalah under his arm, while he holds out a handful of money to "pay the boys' way back from Canada." Next we see him as ST. MARTIN, dividing his cloak with the beggar. The half of the cloak which he gives the beggar to be labeled fifty thousand dollars. The next should have two divisions. In the first Mr. TWEED and Mayor HALL should be represented as meeting in private after the robbery of the vouchers, costumed like Roman Augurs, and unable to look each other in the face without laughing. In the second they should be meeting in public, clasped in each other's arms and weeping upon each other's shoulders over "this deplorable loss at a great crisis of our Municipal Government." Prominent in the foreground here should be GARVEY, INGERSOLL, MILLER, SMITH and KEYSER; some with their tongues in their cheeks and others with their thumbs at their noses. In the last compartment a portly man is sitting in his palatial mansion. He is startled by the entrance of a female figure, bearing scales in one hand and a sword in the other. Although blindfolded, she has walked straight up to him, and with her lifted sword she is about—but we forbear. Prophecy should not be too coldly exact in its detail.

Such is the monument which will doubtless soon be erected in Tweed plaza. The plaza itself should be put into the hands of SWEENY, HILTON & Co., who could, in the course of a few months, make it suggestive of Mr. TWEED'S court-yard with sweet appropriateness, and at a cost of not much more than ten thousand dollars an acre.

MINOR TOPICS.

Judge DOWLING is a man who has a lively appreciation of the good opinion of the public. Is he prepared to forfeit it, once and forever, by lending himself to the plot of the Ring to get their tool HAGGERTY out of the clutches of the law? This is a time when reputations can be made. It is also a time, let Judge DOWLING remember, when reputations can be irretrievably sacrificed. The Bench of New-York has, thus far, done its duty to the people whom it serves, in the present struggle against local corruption. We trust that the man whose courage and vigor we have been so often called upon to admire, will not be the first to betray the great cause in which all honest men are enlisted. Judge DOWLING has no complaint before him upon which HAGGERTY and his masters can be brought to justice. The case should be sent at once to Judge LEDWITH'S Court, where reliable affidavits have been lodged. If it is not sent there, the people will demand a stern account of the reason why.

The New-York Herald, which began its career by black-mailing and ends it as the accomplice of thieves, has taken the following very intelligent course in the great contest with Tammany:

"The warrants published by the NEW-YORK TIMES mean nothing. The City Government is in the very best of hands. All are honest men — the Mayor says so, and whatever the Mayor says ought to be believed. The TIMES is a Bohemian paper, and there is not a word of truth in anything it says." — Herald, from August, 1870, to August, 1871, passim.

"There have been gigantic frauds. The people have been robbed. Mayor HALL may fortify himself behind his position, but it Connolly lets out the combined facts of fraud then the fortress of Tammany will have fallen like a house of cards. The power of Tammany is broken. Her prestige is gone. The central junta is dissolved and divided against itself, and her hitherto invincible army of followers is all adrift," &c., &c.—Herald, Sept. 19, 20 and 21, 1871.

Does not a paper with such a record as this deserve to be listened to with great respect and attention, especially when the fact is known that its entire course is prompted by Mayor HALL, one of the most unscrupulous and treacherous of all the Tammany gang?

Mr. NAST is an industrious man as well as a man of remarkable talents. This week's Harper's fairly overflows with his striking sketches. One represents the Tammany Four protesting that they know nothing about the stolen vouchers. This is labeled "Too Thin," and HALL and his friends are seen under a new aspect. A fine full-page drawing describes what is being done with our public schools—the picture will speak for itself to everybody who examines it. A capital little drawing supplies the commentary to HALL'S boast that he has the "Democratic Party at his back." So he has, according to Mr. NAST'S picture, for the Democratic Party is kicking HALL out of doors. What with these and many other excellent pictures, and some able political articles, and WILKIE COLLINS' new story, it will readily be seen that Harper's Weekly does more than sustain its old prestige.

A furniture-dealer down town, who was patronized by the Ring in its palmy days, says that it was no unusual thing for him to fill orders for handsome furniture to be delivered at one of the City offices below the Park, and when the property was delivered at the designated spot, a receipt would be given for it, the bill taken for audit, and the cart, without being unloaded, would be sent away to deposit the furniture in some house up-town. In this way anybody who served the City has been able to get all the furniture he hankered after for nothing. And the patient tax-payers have paid all these bills. The Committee of Seventy might profitably devote a little attention to the evidences of fraud to be obtained from honest tradesmen.

It is reassuring to know that Deputy Controller GREEN is at work upon the pay-rolls of the Finance Department, and that we may soon see a list of the sponges and suckers in whose behoof the City Treasury has so long been plundered. But we trust that, not only the pay-rolls of the Controller's office, but those of every other branch of the City Government will also be visible in due time. Here is the great leak which must be stopped at once; and what we know of Mr. GREEN gives us reason to believe that his signature will be given to no warrant for salaries which are not earned, no matter whose department makes requisition for the money. And this suggests the point that, if flat perjury has been committed by the holders of sinecures in the past, it might be in order not only to stop their supplies immediately, but also to test the question whether perjury is a punishable offense.

That able and useful journal, the Scientific American, places itself in a false position as regards our remarks on Mr. HIGHTON and the British Association. Nothing in our article can be construed into an indorsement of the merits of Mr. HIGHTON'S invention, of which we know and professed to know, nothing. We simply chronicled the fact that Mr. HIGHTON was refused permission to read his paper before the Association, and that the grounds of the refusal looked unfair. It is all very well for the Scientific American to imply that Mr. HIGHTON is a pretender, and his supposed discoveries unworthy of notice, but when it is remembered (1) that Mr. HIGHTON is a member of the British Association, (2,) that he was regularly engaged to read another paper on a scientific subject at the same meeting of that Association, and (3) that Prof. TAIT, Chairman of the Committee that rejected Mr. HIGHTON'S electrical paper, had been previously engaged in a sharp controversy with the latter gentleman, we submit that the absurdity of imputing possible injustice to the British Association is not quite so patent as the Scientific American would have us believe. We are quite ready to admit that Mr. HIGHTON'S invention may be less valuable than he thinks it, but not that either our facts or comments were in any sense ill founded.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Republican Warfare Against the Carpet-Baggers of Virginia—Remarkable Wool Reports from California—Kuklux Committee.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The statement is made on seemingly good authority that Senator LEWIS, of Virginia, Representative MCKENZIE, and other prominent Republicans in that State, who are old residents of Virginia, have arranged an indiscriminate war on the carpet-baggers. It is proposed to fight them in the primary meetings and then in the State Convention with the hope of breaking up their influence in the management of the party. The negro vote is to be enlisted in the same interest. The influence of carpet-baggers has not been so great in Virginia, that their utter defeat in such a campaign will be a great triumph for the victors. But the effort, if made, will show the drift of public sentiment in the Southern States.

CALIFORNIA WOOL.

The last monthly report of the Agricultural Department gives an account of a remarkable wool clip in California. It is gravely stated, and no joke is intended, that the Department has a sample of wool from a fleece that weighed seventy-eight and a half pounds, and that the first fleece taken from the same sheep when sixteen months old, weighed forty-two and three-fourths pounds. There is a good deal of anxiety at the Agricultural Department to know more about the sheep of California, and the new Chief Clerk of the Department, who is said to be responsible for the statement, will doubtless have some further report on the subject next month.

MEETING OF THE KUKLUX COMMITTEE.

All the members of the Congressional Kuklux Committee, except Messrs. ROBINSON and COOK, were present at the meeting today. The Subcommittee of Three, Senator POOL and Representatives BUCKLEY and BECK, who were heretofore appointed to make a digest of the responses of the Executive officers of the late insurrectionary States, and the Cities of Charleston and New-Orleans, have been reappointed, and their report recommitted, with authority to procure additional official information, and report to the Joint Committee a digest of the laws of the several States for the regulating of elections therein, and also a digest of the debts of said States and cities and the rates of taxation therein. After discussion, resolutions were adopted directing the Chairman of the Committee to appoint a subcommittee of five members to visit North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, and a subcommittee of five members to visit Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi, and take testimony in those States. After discussion, it was decided not to be necessary to send subcommittees to Virginia, Louisiana, Texas or Arkansas. The full Committee will meet again to-morrow. At the meeting in July last, a resolution was adopted that WM. G. WHIPPLE and ROBERT G. CATTERSON, of Little Rock, and STEPHEN G. WHEELER, of Duvall's Bluff, Ark., be summoned to appear before the Committee on the 20th of September. Those witnesses will be examined to-morrow with regard to the alleged frauds of Ex-Gov. CLAYTON and others, concerning the Congressional election in Arkansas last Fall. WHIPPLE was United States District-Attorney, CATTERSON the Marshal, and WHEELER the foreman of the Grand Jury which presented the accused parties. It is understood that money for the expenses of the subcommittees will be procured from a fund of about $13,000 in the hands of the Attorney-General

POLITICAL.

NEW-JERSEY.

The Candidates for Governor—Letter from Hon. Cortlandt Parker.

In a letter to Hon. JOHN DAVIDSON, written from Trenton, N. J., on the 19th inst., Hon. CORTLANDT PARKER, says: "Mr. JOEL PARKER is a perfect exponent of his party. He has always been a thorough partisan. He owed his previous election to his earnest opposition to the Proclamation of Freedom made in September, 1862, and to the inability of our people then to grasp the great issue of the war. He is a Jerseyman and a law-abiding citizen, and gave what support was required of the State to the necessities of the General Government. But his opinions were often expressed and are on record. And those who read them will see that he is and always has been an out-and-out Democrat, at no time differing with the party platforms. I speak from recollection, but I feel quite confident I am right. I like the man, but neither you nor I can like his politics or wish to see him again elected Governor of the State. The candidate nominated by the Republican Convention is fully worthy of our support. In those trying days, when Democracy North halted and Democracy South rebelled, he was sound to the core and indefatigably earnest. He was not then what may be called a politician. But the country and the cause of human freedom had no more active, generous and energetic friend. In the Christian Commission, at war meetings, by private generosity and in every way then possible to him, he gave aid to the right cause, and made himself known and respected of all men. No one need doubt his capacity for the office. He has intelligence, prudence, practical sense and large acquaintance with men and affairs. His executive ability is remarkable and well known. And he is an independent man, who will be no nose of wax in anybody's hands, but, if elected Governor, will do his duty fearlessly and justly. I have known Mr. WALSH for many years, and have every confidence that my judgment of him is correct."

New-Jersey Republican State Central Committee.

Senator BETTLE, as Chairman of the New-Jersey Republican State Convention, has designated the Republican State Central Committee, as follows:

At Large—Hon. George A. Halsey, Chairman, Essex; Gen. Thomas B. Vanburen, Bergen; Frederick Potts, Hunterdon. First District, Hon. John W. Hasleton, Gloucester; Second District, Josephus Sooy, Burlington; Third District, Hon. L. D. Jarrard, Middlesex; Fourth District, Joseph Coult, Sussex; Fifth District, August Ingwerson, Hudson.

The Elizabeth Journal says: "It will be seen that Senator BETTLE has performed his work with judgment and tact, and got together an experienced, energetic and trustworthy committee, in whose members the various interests of locality and leadership in the State are cleverly harmonized, so as to subserve the best interests of the party and insure its success. The Committee is one that knows how to organize victory, and as they have a determined and united host to lead, the prospect is very hopeful. We learn this morning, on the best authority, that Mr. WALSH has been consulted during the composition of the Committee, and that it has his full assent and indorsement."

LOCAL POLITICS.

The Germans of the Twentieth Ward on the Ring Frauds.

A meeting took place last night of the German Independent Citizens' Club, at No. 147 West Thirty-second-street.

Mr. SCHWAB denounced the actions of the present heads of the City Government, stigmatizing them as swindlers.

Resolutions were adopted approving of the appointment of the Committee of Seventy.

Delegates to the Republican State Convention.

The following are additional delegates to the Republican State Convention:

DUTCHESS, First District—John B. Dutcher, Joseph Howland, Silas O. Rogers, George F. Belding.

QUEENS, First District—John A. King, John Birdsall.

WASHINGTON, Second District—Col. A. H. Tanner, J amesH. Sherrill, John Norton.

WESTCHESTER, Second District—Thos. Leary, John C. Pauiding, Cyrus Lawrence, second.

Central Tweed Committee.

The officers and delegates of the Central William M. Tweed Club held a meeting yesterday at No. 115 Nassau-street, Mr. JAMES OLIVER presiding. Nineteen Wards were represented. The invitation of the Fourth Senatorial District was presented and accepted. The arrangements for the forthcoming demonstration, at East Broadway and Canal-street, were then discussed. The Twenty-first Ward Club, in recompense for their offer to supply a band of music, were awarded the post of honor in the procession, and it was decided that the uptown Clubs shall fall in behind the Twenty-first Ward Club on Third-avenue, and that the down-town Clubs all in at Canal-street and Bowery.

Eighth Assembly District German Association—Tammany Denounced.

The Indpendent German Association of the Eighth Assembly District held a mass-meeting, last evening, at the Walhalla, Orchard-street. Mr. W. GELMANN presided. There were about 400 German voters, Republicans, Democrats and neutrals, present. The meeting was called to consider the subject of nominating an Assemblyman to represent the Germans of the district. Mr. B. EYBEL had been proposed as a candidate for this position, but he declined the honor. A committee of twenty-five was then appointed, with power to select the man whom they might consider most suitable for the position, and to report the result of their deliberations at the next meeting of the Association. Several speeches were made, in which Tammany Hall was unsparingly denounced as the very fountain of municipal corruption. The remarks were heartily applauded.

Regular Republicans of the Tenth Assembly District.

A meeting was held last night of the regular Republican Association of the Tenth Assembly District, at Concordia Hall, Nos. 28 and 30 Avenue A, at which sixty new members were reported on favorably, admitted, and signed the roll, and thirty-eight new names were proposed for membership, which were referred to the proper committee. Dr. TRESCOTHIS offered the following resolutions, which were adopted:

Resolved, That we instruct our delegates to the Syracuse Convention to use their influence to prevent the adoption of any special plank in the Republican platform, on the subjects of temperance or religion, believing it safe to leave these subjects to the practical good sense of the community.

Mr. G. S. MCWATTERS offered the following resolutions, which were adopted.

Resolved, That in order to show our appreciation of the good effects of the Press in directing public opinion, we subscribe for, purchase and circulate, free, 500 copies of the pamphlet just published by the NEW-YORK DAILY TIMES, entitled How New-York is Governed, and that we respectfully suggest the issue of a German version of the same.

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to collect funds for the above object, and superintend the circulation of the above-named pamphlet, and any other documents that may be published from time to time, for the purpose of breaking up the corrupt Tammany Ring.

GEO. S. MCWATTERS, PETER LEICHT and Capt. COLLINS were appointed the said Committee, and the meeting adjourned.

Political Brevities.

A complimentary reception was given last evening to Senator BRADLEY at the corner of Eighteenth-street and Third-avenue.

The Cumberland County Republican Convention, New-Jersey, on Wednesday, nominated C. H. SHEPHERD for State Senator, and G. H. WEIKER and G. R. WILLIS for Assemblymen.

A number of German citizens, irrespective of former party affiliations, met at the Walhall, in Orchard-street, last evening, and agreed to urge Mr. BERNHARD EGBEL for a candidate for the Eighth Assembly district.

The members of the Twenty-first Ward Richard B. Connolly Association met last evening and indorsed the action of the Controller in the appointment of Mr. GREEN. They also passed resolutions approving of his conduct in regard to the present political complications.

The absorbing question among Brooklyn local politicians is the Mayoralty. There are four candidates in the field on the Democratic side: the present incumbent, Martin Kalbfleisch, Hon. Thomas Kinsella, Hon. Demas Barnes and William E. Robinson.

A meeting of the Fourteenth Ward Irish Independent Political Association took place last evening at Hibernia Hall. Resolutions were passed pledging those present not to allow themselves to be led in future by the factionists who hitherto have made professions in order to obtain the Irish vote.

The regular monthly meeting of the reorganized Republican Association of the Twenty-first Assembly District was held last evening, at Lincoln Hall, Harlem. Resolutions were passed indorsing the nomination of J. MADISON BOYD for Assembly, and J. NEVEN HEGEMAN for Senator of the Eighth Senatorial District, and pledging hearty support.

Mr. SAMUEL J. TILDEN, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, has sent circulars to prominent Democrats, requesting their attendance at the primary meetings to choose delegates to the respective Assembly districts or county conventions. He concludes with these words: "Wherever the gangrene of corruption has reached the Democratic Party, we must take a knife and cut it out by the roots."

POLITICAL NOTES.

Nineteen of the twenty members of the Kuklux Committee are now in Washington.

The Maryland Republican State Central Committee is to meet in Baltimore on Wednesday next, to prepare for a vigorous campaign.

Ex-Senator JOHN F. HUBBARD politely declines to become the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State, and in this the honorable Ex-Senator is wise.

The Republican ratification meetings in New-Jersey are everywhere very successful. One is to be held in Newark on Wednesday night next, with JOHN DAVIDSON and others as speakers.

The Grand Jury of Los Angeles County, California, have refused to act upon the charge of Judge SEPULVEDA, recommending an investigation of the alleged frauds in the recent election.

The Republican's returns show that of 652 delegates to the Massachusetts Republican State Convention now chosen, 243 are for BUTLER and 409 against him. The majority against BUTLER is 166.

The complete vote of West Virginia on the Constitutional Convention, the returns from all but two of the counties being official, show 30,450 votes for the Convention, and 27,638 against it. Majority in its favor, 2,812.

Mayor THOMAS KIRKPATRICK, of Auburn, is urged for the Republican nomination for State Prison Inspector. He held the office many years ago, and, the Advertiser says, never had a superior, either in discipline or economy.

WILLIAM D. MURPHY, the Democratic candidate for the Assembly in the First District of Albany County, has twice succeeded, the Evening Journal says, when he should and could have been beaten, and this time he must be defeated without fail.

The Atlanta True Georgian, which still keeps the name of JOHN T. HOFFMAN at the head of its columns for President in 1872, says it is not disposed to dissent from the opinion that CHASE and RANDOLPH, (of New-Jersey,) would be a ticket hard to beat.

Of Boston's 100 delegates to the Massachusetts Republican State Convention, the anti-Butler men carried 62—and all but two of these are in favor of the nomination of Hon. A. H. RICE. Two delegates lean to Dr. LORING. There were thirty-eight Butler delegates chosen.

The Republican State Editorial Association will hold its next meeting at the Globe Hotel, Syracuse, on Wednesday, Sept. 27. Every Republican editor in this State is recognized as a member of this Association, and an invitation is extended to all through Mr. C. B. THOMSON, its Secretary, to attend.

The Albany Express suggests the late Senator from the Seventeenth District as a desirable candidate for a prominent place on the Republican State ticket, saying there are few men in the State whom honest Republicans and honest Democrats alike would more delight to honor than Hon. A. X. PARKER, of St. Lawrence County.

The Newburg Journal says Hon. S. W. FULLERTON has been looked to as the Republican candidate for the next County Judge of Orange County; but if the State Convention should select him as the candidate for Attorney-General, his fellow-citizens will cordially second the movement, believing that his superior in ability has not filled that position, for many years at least.

The amendment to the Constitution of California, prohibiting an appropriation of money by the Legislature for any purpose whatever for a longer period than two years, was ratified at the late election by a large majority. The act proposing the retunding of the State debt in new six per cent. twenty year bonds was lost. The funded debt is small in amount, and in process of rapid extinction.

The Boston Advertiser of yesterday contains an article beginning: "It is, perhaps, worth while to say that, in the canvass for the gubernatorial nomination of the Republican Convention, the National Administration has no candidate. Two classes of persons, Gen. BUTLER'S adherents and the Democracy, have a very strong interest in misleading the public to a contrary opinion."

Hon. GEORGE F. HOAR has written a letter saying he is earnestly in favor of the nomination of Mr. WASHBURN for Governor of Massachusetts, because toward him no portion of the Republican Party cherishes any hostility which would prevent their extending to him a just and generous confidence and support, and he cherishes no hostilities to anybody, which would swerve him from absolute justice toward every citizen.

Gen. KILPATRICK and Hon. JOHN DAVIDSON both spoke at the Republican ratification meeting in Elizabeth, N. J., on Tuesday night, and publicly pledged themselves to spare no endeavor to secure the election of Hon. CORNELIUS WALSH, who was also present and addressed the meeting. Gen. KILPATRICK said: "I am here to-night by invitation of JOHN DAVIDSON. I am pledged to this cause, and will not cease to work till victory is ours."

The President's remarks at his reception in Cincinnati are thus reported: "Mr. Mayor—It affords me very great pleasure to get back again to the scenes of my youth, among my old neighbors and friends, who were my friends long before I ever dreamed of leaving the peaceful avocations of an Ohio citizen. It is very gratifying to me to be received by citizens without distinction of party, much more so than it would have been to be the mere guest of a party. I thank the citizens of Cincinnati, through you, Mr. Mayor, for the very hearty welcome with which they have honored me."

The Cooperstown Freeman's Journal puts it briefly thus: "CONNOLLY, TWEED and SWEENY are all in one boat, and it matters little to the public which one pulls the stroke oar. They have all been in active political life together—they have all aided in grossly mismanaging the affairs of the City of New-York—disgrace attaches to their administration—their influence with the party in which they have been to a certain extent leaders is gone—the public have no confidence in them—now let all should retire together from public life." In these spoke a pallitating word for Mayor HALL, quotes the Evening Post in his defense, and says: "Mayor HALL will be judged very much by what he does in the future; but if his fortunes are in any manner linked in with 'the Ring,' he too should retire."

Mr. CHARLES P. EASTON, of Albany, has withdrawn his name as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Senator in the Thirteenth District, in favor of Mr. CHAS. H. ADAMS, also of Albany. The Albany Journal says Mr. EASTON has rendered such faithful and able service in the past as naturally suggested him for a position which he would adorn, and in suffering no personal considerations to interfere with the welfare of the party he has but strengthened his title to the esteem of his friends. It is also says that Mr. ADAMS has not desired the honor, but has yielded to the sentiment which seemed to point to him as the proper man to be presented at this particular time; and that his unanimous nomination, through the graceful action of Mr. EASTON, will be a happy augury of success.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

M. Rochefort to be Transported—Assembly of the German Reichstag—Changes in the Turkish Ministry—Continuance of the Diamond Excitement in Africa.

VERSAILLES, Sept. 21.—President THIERS has been presented by KING AMADEUS of Spain with the order of the Golden Fleece. M. THIERS held a lengthy interview, today, with Herr VON ARNIM upon the subject of the delayed treaty between France and Germany. M. ROCHEFORT'S trial is concluded, and he has been sentenced by the Court-martial to transportation to a penal colony for life.

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—ODO RUSSELL, the newly-appointed British Ambassador to the German Empire, has arrived in Berlin, and will, at an early day, be officially presented to Emperor WILLIAM. The German Reichstag will meet on the 15th of October. There was quite a severe snow-storm today at Gumbinnen, in East Prussia.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Further changes in the Turkish Ministry have occurred, but are not of an important character. Late advices from the Cape of Good Hope are to the effect that diamonds continue to be found in great numbers in the fields at the north, and that the rush to the diggings and the excitement over the discoveries are unabated. The new Inman steam-ship City of Montreal, launched yesterday at Glasgow, is of 4,600 tons measurement, and is the largest vessel ever constructed on the Clyde. A meeting was held today, at the Colonial Institute, in aid of the sufferers by the tremendous August hurricane experienced in the British West Indies. The movement was originated by the Bishop of Antigua and Governor PINE, of the Leeward Islands.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis of Events and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—1 A. M.—The high pressure which was Wednesday night central on Lake Michigan has moved south-eastward, and now extends over the Middle and Eastern States. The lowest barometer is in the North-west, with increasing south-easterly winds west of Lake Erie, and the pressure has fallen very rapidly during the day. The low pressure on the South Atlantic coast has prevailed at all stations except light rain in Northern Florida, and cloudiness in the immediate South Atlantic coast; diminishing north-easterly winds with falling temperature in the Ohio Valley, and rising temperature north of Illinois and Kansas.

PROBABILITIES.

Clear weather with light winds veering to the east is probable for the Middle and Eastern States on Friday; fresh winds from the north-east and south-east for the Gulf and Southern States, with cloudiness confined to Georgia and Florida; falling barometer for the lakes, with easterly winds, increasing to brisk and veering to the south-west, in Wisconsin.

INDIAN AFFAIRS.

Peaceable Condition of the Kiowa Indians—The Cherokees in North Carolina to be Removed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The Acting Commissioner of Indian Affairs to-day received the following from Agent TATUM, under date:

"OFFICE OF THE KIOWA AGENCY, FORT TELL, Sept. 19, 1871.—There have been no Indian hostilities or demonstrations by the Indians of this Agency since I last wrote. I apprehend no further trouble with the Indians here this year."

Friend JOHN G. LANG and Col. D. C. COX, of the Interior Department, have been designated by Secretary DELANO to proceed to North Carolina and remove the Cherokees in that State to the Indian Territory. There are about 1,500 Cherokees in the State, all of whom are anxious for a change of residence. Mr. LANG and Col. COX leave for Philadelphia and New-York to-morrow for the purpose of purchasing clothing, to distribute among the destitute of these Indians. In this duty Mr. LANG acts for the Indian Commission, and Col. COX represents the Department of the Interior.

Terrible Earthquake in the West Indies—Seven Thousand Persons Homeless.

SPLENDID SEA ISLAND PLANTATION

ON

Wadmalaw Island, South Carolina, Twenty-

Five Miles from Charleston,

FOR SALE.

ROSE BANK PLANTATION contains 1,000 acres, 600 of which are planting lands for COTTON, CORN, &c., the balance being in FINE HEAVY WOOD LAND. This well-known plantation, formerly the property of Dr. Witridge, deceased, possesses every requisite for raising the finest Sea Island or Long Staple Cotton, and is fully equal to any plantation on the famous Sea Islands of South Carolina. It is in better heart and condition than any other Sea Island property, and is well-known to be the best settled plantation on the coast. The IMPROVEMENTS consist of fine Dwelling-House, Store, Gin-house and Gins, Engine-house, with Steam Engine of ten-horse power, Cotton-House, Grist-Mill, with complete machinery, and thirty substantial Negro-Houses. About 400 acres are now planted in Cotton and Corn, the Crops being very good, and the Cotton raised this year will bring now $1 per pound, (rarely brings less,) and 150 pounds can be produced per acre. The place has been planted and cultivated every year since the war, and been well and thoroughly manured each year.

The present owner having other plantations to carry on, finds it necessary to sell this one, with above-named buildings and appurtenances, as well as Mules, Horses, Plows and all Agricultural Implements, ready to commence planting this Fall for the next year's crop. There will be cotton seed enough on the place arising from the present crop to manure the land for next season.

On the Plantation are some Fifty Hands, mostly born on the premises, who are strongly attached to their old home. They are civil, industrious laborers, perfect plantation hands with the Hoe or the Plow. Abundant additional labor can be found in the vicinity at 40 cents per day.

This very valuable property, worth before the war $60,000, and quite as valuable now, is offered at HALF THAT PRICE, on easy terms, almost enabling the purchaser to pay for the Plantation out of the Crops. Reference can be made to every cotton factor in Charleston, S. C., to whom the productiveness and splendid condition of this plantation are well known.

To any one desirous of avoiding the inclement Winters of the North by a pleasant and profitable residence at the South, this property offers special advantages. Will be sold for part cash, or exchanged for improved property in New-York or its vicinity. For further particulars apply to

JOHN C. JACOBSOHN,
No. 704 Broadway, New-York.

VALUABLE COUNTRY-SEAT FOR sale, situated in the town of Claverack, Columbia County, New-York, four miles from the City of Hudson and half a mile from the Hudson River Institute and Hudson and Boston Railroad Depot, containing fifty acres of land under the highest cultivation; all kinds of fruit and shade trees; house and outbuildings in perfect order and the grounds handsomely laid out. For terms apply to Miss N. MESICK, on the premises; or VAN WYCK & GREEN, lawyers, No. 34½ Pine-st., New-York; and WILLIAM A. TIFFANY, care of Lily, Oberholser & Co., Nos. 229 and 231 Broadway, New-York.

FINANCIAL.

Connecticut Valley Railroad Company

BONDS!

Proposals will be received at the Connecticut River Banking Company, in Hartford, until 3 o'clock P. M. Saturday, Sept. 23, 1871, for the purchase of the whole or any part of

ONE MILLION DOLLARS

Of the First Mortgage Seven per Cent. Non-Taxable Bonds of the Connecticut Valley Railroad Company.

This is the whole issue, the first and only mortgage, and covers the entire property, equipment and franchise of the road.
The railroad has been built with cash subscriptions to the stock.
The Capital Stock is $1,500,000.
The amount paid in is $1,900,000, and the Bonds are issued for the complete and thorough equipment of the road.
These Bonds are payable thirty years from Jan. 1, 1871.
They are registered at the office of the Controller of the State of Connecticut, and are free from all taxes, State, municipal, and income.
They are in denominations of $1,000 each, with interest coupons attached, payable semi-annually, in January and July at the American Exchange National Bank, New-York, or Connecticut River Banking Company, Hartford, Conn.
They can be registered, if desired, and when registered, the coupons are payable to the order of the registered holder thereof.
The line of the road is on the west bank of the Connecticut River, is forty-four miles in length, extending from Hartford to Saybrook on the Sound—touching all the important towns and villages on the route.
Regular passenger trains were running within fifteen months from the beginning of work on the road, the daily receipts from which are nearly equal to the interest on the Mortgage Bonds.
Two additional passenger trains and also freight trains will be in operation by Oct. 1, 1871, and it is affirmed that the Winter traffic will be large.
A certified check or currency for ten per cent. of the par value of Bonds applied for must be inclosed with each application.
The accrued interest will be added to all accepted proposals, from July 1, 1871, until the final payment, WHICH MAY BE AT THE OPTION OF THE PURCHASER, until and including Oct. 10, 1871.
The sum advanced on proposals declined will be promptly returned.
Proposals may be addressed to
JOHN A. BUTLER,
Connecticut River Banking Company, Hartford, Conn., indorsed "Proposals for Bonds of the Connecticut Valley Railroad Company."
The right is reserved to decline all proposals which may be considered undesirable.

$600,000.
SOUTH CAROLINA RAILROAD COMPANY
7 PER CENT. FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS.
Principal due 1st January, 1888, and coupons payable in New-York 1st January and 1st July.
These bonds are secured by mortgage in pursuance of a deed executed on the 1st of January, 1868, in which Henry Gourdin, H. P. Walker and James M. Calder are named trustees, being the only mortgage lien on the railway and rolling stock of the corporation, and are part of an issue made in conversion of sterling bonds amounting to £610,500 sterling, being the equivalent in United States currency to about $3,100,000, and less than $12,000 per mile, the length of railway being 243 miles.
The gross receipts of the Company for 1870 amounted to $1,468,340 53: operating expenses and renewals, $916,095 82, showing a profit of $552,244 71, or $135,244 71 in excess of its annual interest of 7 per cent, on $3,100,000 First Mortgage Bonds.
The South Carolina Railway is one of the earliest built railways in the United States; its affairs have ever been managed with care and and integrity, and the present condition of the property is that of complete restoration. We recommend to investors its Mortgage Bonds, with the assurance of their being a first class security.
The above described bonds are offered for sale by the undersigned at 87½ per cent.

FINANCIAL.

First Mortgage, Convertible,
7 Per Cent. Gold Bonds
OF THE
PEORIA & ROCK ISLAND RAILWAY
OF ILLINOIS.

First Mortgage Bonds - - - $1,500,000
Capital Stock - - - - - - - - 2,000,000

This is a COMPLETED Road 91 miles in length, connecting the important Cities of Peoria on the Illinois River, and Rock Island, Moline and Davenport, on the Mississippi. Davenport, on the opposite bank of the river, is connected by a railway bridge. The last rail of this road was laid July 7, 1871, and the line is now open and being operated with a success exceeding all anticipation. In order to place upon the road the large equipment necessary for the business offered, and to construct depots, car and engine-houses, machine-shops, &c., equal to any of the best old roads in the country, as is now required of this, the Company offer, through the undersigned, $1,500,000 convertible first mortgage gold bonds, which cover the entire property of the Company, and is less than $17,000 per mile. PRESENT PRICE, 90, AND ACCRUED INTEREST IN CURRENCY. Principal and interest payable in coin at New-York or London, free of tax.
This road, opened for the immense local as well as through traffic, now offered, will prove one of the most profitable in the West, traversing as it does a section of country unsurpassed in fertility of soil and agricultural resources, already thickly populated and in a high state of cultivation. This is self-evident from the fact that every section of the road passes through cultivated fields and many flourishing towns and villages, with a large city and navigable river at each end. Railroads in the West have been heretofore constructed through unsettled and uncultivated regions of the country, consequently have had but little local traffic to depend upon for several years after construction. But the Peoria and Rock Island Railway is a first class COMPLETED road, with NO PARALLEL or COMPETING LINE, and RUNS THROUGH ONE OF THE RICHEST AGRICULTURAL, MANUFACTURING AND MOST POPULOUS DISTRICTS IN THE WEST. Thus it is certain that the local business is already more than enough to sustain the road, while the through traffic is unlimited, as its connections are numerous, which can be seen by a glance at the map.
This road is a grand central link, to which many of the principal lines centralize and diverge to all parts of the continent.
We invite the attention of investors to this loan. Being familiar with the wealth and resources of the country along the line of this railway and A MEMBER OF OUR FIRM HAVING MADE A CAREFUL EXAMINATION OF THE ROAD AND ITS PROPERTY, WE CAN WITH THE UTMOST CONFIDENCE RECOMMEND THE BONDS AS A PRIME SECURITY, reliable and safe in every particular.
All marketable securities received in exchange at full rates, and bonds delivered to all parts of the country, free of express charges.
Maps, circulars, &c., with full particulars relating to the road, furnished on application by the undersigned, Financial Agents of the Company.

A FIRST-CLASS HOME INVESTMENT.
FIRST MORTGAGE GOLD BONDS
OF
RONDOUT AND OSWEGO RAILROAD.
PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD.
Seven Per Cent. per Annum---Payable Semi-Annually.

This Road is now in a condition to show its great value and its very prosperous future, covering, as it does, 100 miles of the most direct possible line between the Great Lakes and deep-water navigation of the Hudson, and opening the fine counties of Ulster, Green and Delaware to railroad facilities heretofore mostly deprived of them. Fifty miles of this road is now built, and in a most thorough and substantial manner, and EARNING ALREADY 10 PER CENT. ON THE WHOLE AMOUNT OF THE $2,000,000 OF FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS OVER RUNNING EXPENSES. The balance of the road, with its several sidings, viz.: To Hunters, twelve miles; to Woodstock, six miles; to Willow, one mile; to Kingston depot, standing on the books Kingston Point, is under contract with able and responsible contractors, to be finished by July 1, 1872. It will be one of the best-built roads in the country, and the lease of Bonds is limited to $20,000 per mile of completed road. The Bonds are secured by Trust Deed to the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, covering every description of property the Rondout and Oswego Company now own, or may acquire hereafter. The price is now 90 currency and accrued interest, with the privilege of advancing the price hereafter.

THE REFORM MOVEMENT

to some in during the last quarter amount to about $23,000,000, but this has been to a great extent anticipated by loans maturing within four months; hence there is no provision for arrears or the expenses of the coming quarter. The Controller has sold $15,000,000 of six per cent. gold bonds, payable in 1901 the proceeds of which, by statute, should "be used to pay off and cancel any bonds or stock of said City falling due in the year 1871," or "in exchange for the City stock or bonds." About $5,000,000 of these bonds are still to be delivered and paid for at four and a half per cent. premium. It is desirable to have statements at once from the various Departments, showing the public works in progress and the contracts now existing, with estimated outlays, and the periods at which such outlays are payable. Every citizen will desire that the bona fide debts be paid, and the credit of the City maintained. But every citizen should be informed that the public works now in progress call daily for large sums of money. To supply these sums, the debt of the City will be daily increased until these works are completed or the prosecution of them suspended. We are wholly unadvised, and have no means of knowing at what rate these expenses are accumulating and what debts the Departments are contracting. We have, however, the experience of the last quarter of last year, during which the Tax Bevies for the year were paid into the City Treasury, part of the floating debt was converted into permanent debt, the total debt increased in those three months (from 5th October to 31st December) about $2,500,000. The City has, today, a floating debt of more than $25,000,000, short acceptances falling due from week to week, between the 15th of October and the 15th of January. These bills payable bear the trade mark of "City Revenue Bonds," "County Revenue Bonds," &c. But no banker recognizes a short bill, maturing within the year, as a bond. The great evil in this City Corporation finance is the floating debt. Through this the Tax Levy has disappeared again, as it did last year, in advance of its collection. The act authorizing the issue of consolidated bonds, ostensibly to convert all the numerous classes of City and County debts into bonds of uniform character, is the lever through which the agents of the City proposed to fund the floating debt this year; issuing in the first instance their four or six months' bills payable, calling this paper "revenue bonds," and finding authority, possibly, in the letter of the statute to fund the floating debt.

Mr. CLAFLIN asked: What is the total debt at the present date?

Mr. BOOTH said: The debt is just what has been stated; the total is in round numbers $116,000,000, from which must be deducted the securities held by the Sinking Fund Commissioners, which amount in round numbers to $19,422,333, making the actual debt about $97,000,000. There are, however, claims on the City not yet brought to the Controller's notice, and comparing these probable claims with those of former years, we think the taxes collected will not be sufficient to pay them.

Mr. OSBORN said that the debt at the end of the year would most probably be greater than it is at present. They could not say exactly what these claims would amount to without an exhaustive examination of all the papers in the various Departments. They could not tell what contracts were out, and could make no estimate of them. Of course, whatever they might be, they were just as much a part of the City debt as its stocks and bonds.

Mr. BOOTH said that certain powers and certain legal assistance were necessary to the Committee, and he therefore offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the honorable the Board of Supervisors of the County of New-York be, and they are respectfully requested, by proper resolutions, to confer on the members of this body, who have been duly appointed a Committee to act with a Committee of the Board of Aldermen of the City of New-York in making an examination of the accounts and the financial condition of said County and City of New-York, authority to exercise the powers enumerated and set forth in section 1, chapter 160, of laws of 1858.

Mr. CLAFLIN wished to know whether the floating debt was included in Mr. OSBORN'S statement of $97,000,000.

Mr. OSBORN said everything was included.

Mr. PHELPS said that the report had been ready on Monday, but subsequently a clerical error was discovered, and the report had been kept back to correct it. The Subcommittee could not tell what bills were outstanding, and no one could give the requisite information. No registry of such bills was kept. The Committee believed the claims outstanding were very large; that, however, was mere guess-work.

Mr. BOOTH said the Controller and his deputy estimated the claims outstanding against his Department at $1,500,000. That is, that bills unpaid to that amount are yet to be audited.

The Committee then adjourned, subject to call.

The clerks and experts employed by the Committee are at present engaged in making exact transcripts of the accounts found in the Controller's books against INGERSOLL, GARVEY, KEYSER, MILLER and others. When finished, the Committee will call for the vouchers for these accounts. A member of the Committee stated, in the course of conversation with our reporter, that a good many vouchers, at first supposed to be missing, had been found, and among them those for the armories and drill-rooms, of which only two were absent.

A Visit to Hagerty's Rooms—What was Found in a Pile of Ashes.

In the affidavit made by MARY CONWAY, a servant in HAGERTY'S employ, she alleges, among other things, that the stolen vouchers were burned in the kitchen connected with the janitor's rooms. Having a faint suspicion that this allegation might lead to some new development, a TIMES reporter visited HAGERTY'S apartments. After a tedious search through the new Court-house, passing up and down several staircases, he finally came to a suite of rooms on the top floor of the western wing of the marble building, where he read a sign which indicated that they were occupied by HAGERTY and his family. In the narrow corridor stood a refrigerator, a trunk, and some domestic utensils. Our reporter knocked at the doors of the different rooms, but failed to get any response, and he then concluded that all the inmates were absent. At this moment he happened to espy a large heap of ashes and cinders in the north-western corner of the Court-house and directly under the roof. The thought that some clue to the stolen vouchers might be unearthed in this mass of rubbish suggested itself. He proceeded to rake up the cinders and ashes with his hands and feet. Just below the surface were found charred pieces of paper, thickly scattered among the ashes. These were slowly gathered together, the greatest care being taken to prevent the embers from crumbling to pieces in the fingers. The statement of HAGERTY'S servant that the vouchers were thrown among the ashes after being burned was recalled to mind, and the suspicion was formed that the last remains of them had been discovered. Along with the embers were picked up some pieces of tin, such as are used to hold legal and other papers together. Subsequently to the discovery of the ashes a portion of the charred papers was given to Col. DUNLAP, of the Controller's office, together with one of the folio metal fasteners, which he recognized as the kind in use in the Controller's office. He considered both of so much importance that he promptly transmitted them to the Controller, after the finder of the fastener had marked it so that it could be identified hereafter. Col. DUNLAP also detailed a guard to watch the pile of dirt on the top floor, and announced that he would have a thorough examination made of it today. Several of the pieces of burned paper were brought to the TIMES office, and it was not long before a close scrutiny of them showed that the marks of the writing and letters still remained on the burned paper, and that some of the words could be deciphered. Figures were numerous on nearly all the bits of paper. One of them contained the word "yards" and beneath it the word "days." Others plainly revealed the words "labor," "county," "law," "appropriation," "registration," &c. The evidence is most convincing.

Mr. Sweeny Alarmed.

It will be remembered that PETER B. SWEENY and HUGH SMITH purchased the block between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets, in Broadway, for over $750,000, and that they immediately leased the hall in the building to the Board of Supervisors for an armory at a rent of $30,000 a year, when in reality the room was not worth $3,000. It will also be recollected that SWEENY and SMITH ante-dated the lease eighteen months, and received $45,000 for the use and occupation of a hall which they did not own, and which during the eighteen months was not used or occupied by the City. It is further important that the public should know that within a few days both SWEENY and SMITH have conveyed the whole property to BERNARD SMYTH, and BERNARD SMYTH has conveyed it to another SMITH or SMYTH, and so on ad infinitum through a long list of SMITHS.

MORE FRAUDULENT VOUCHERS.

An Expose by Mr. G. L. Schuyler—Over $400,000 Pocketed by the Ring.

In yesterday's issue of the TIMES was printed a list of the vouchers which JAMES WATSON, deceased, late County Auditor, took from the Controller's office. The deep anxiety manifested recently by some one to get possession of other vouchers of a similar character, indicated very clearly that these papers were the evidence of some gross and monstrous fraud, and perhaps of some fearful system of forgery. That such was in truth the case has been brought to light by the publication of these vouchers. Among them occurred the name of G. L. SCHUYLER, for sums amounting in the aggregate to $463,037, for lumber furnished to the City. Mr. SCHUYLER is a well-known lumber-merchant, having large yards at the foot of Thirty-fifth-street, East River, and his friends yesterday morning came to reproach him for having sullied his honorable name by such a piece of rascality. He assured them that it was altogether a fraudulent statement, and that his receipts from the City did not, to the best of his recollection, exceed $50,000, and that his claims against the City for three years' work did not quite reach that figure. By their advice he prepared the following statement:

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In the list of vouchers published in your and other City papers this morning as having been surreptitiously obtained from the Controller's office by the late County Auditor WATSON, I find that I figure as having received at various times the enormous sum of $463,037, and being unwilling to rest, even for a day, under the suspicion of having conspired to defraud the City, I make haste to deny utterly all knowledge of the vouchers referred to, and to state the exact facts in regard to the payments made to or for me by the Corporation. On referring to my books I find that the first of such payments was made in January, 1868, from which date up to the 23d of June, 1870—a period of nearly two and a half years—I have received from them the sum of $48,510 44—no more and no less—and for which, as I am prepared cheerfully to show to any parties authorized to make the investigation, I gave full value in timber and lumber for the repair of docks, and for other equally legitimate purposes.

By giving this communication the publicity of your columns, you will much oblige,

Very respectfully, G. L. SCHUYLER.

NEW-YORK, Thursday, Sept. 21, 1871.

A reporter of the TIMES called upon Mr. SCHUYLER to elicit further information, and found him very anxious to tell all the facts. He said that the City business came to his firm entirely unsought by him in the Fall of 1868. He had never been introduced to any member of the City Government, nor had his partner, Mr. JAMES E. MILLER. From that time up to the present date, he had furnished lumber principally for piers and docks, and was furnishing some at the present time. His partner had always attended to the paying except in one instance, when he collected the bill himself. He was kept running about the money for at least five months, and was then referred to the Department of Arrears. Here the clerks told him that he must see Mr. JAMES WATSON, the County Auditor. He went to see that gentleman several times, and at last he told him that he had better make an assignment of his claim to some one in the office who could, perhaps, get it through. As he was tired of waiting for his money, and losing his time and temper dodging about the Departments, he assented, and made a full assignment of his claim to ——. Two days afterward he was paid in full. Mr. SCHUYLER could not say whether his partner had been obliged to do the same thing, but he thinks it likely.

This will explain the devouring anxiety of some one to hide the vouchers. The blank assignments must have been filled in with fictitious names, the amounts altered, and fictitious names written on the back above the indorsement of the head of the Department, WM. M. TWEED. This constitutes the crime of forgery, and would subject the offender to imprisonment.

THE UNION LEAGUE CLUB.

Large Meeting Last Evening—Practical Measures of Reform—Addresses of William A. Booth, Col. Van Buren, Judge Barrett, Rev. Dr. J. P. Thompson and Others.

The members of the Union League Club held a large meeting last night at their rooms, corner of Twenty-sixth-street and Madison-avenue. The greatest harmony prevailed, and there seemed to be but one opinion uppermost in the minds of all, and that was that the present administration of the affairs of the municipal authorities was infamous, and that severe and immediate steps were necessary to be taken in order to cause a complete reform in the management of the affairs of our City Government. The action of Controller CONNOLLY in placing in office such a well-tried and responsible man as ANDREW H. GREEN was heartily indorsed. The reception accorded to Judge BARRETT, mention of which is more fully made below, proved beyond doubt how well the action of that gentlemen and his colleagues is approved of by the members of the Union League Club.

At 8 o'clock the meeting assembled, and the chair was taken by WILLIAM A. BOOTH, Esq. The Chairman then called the meeting to order, and briefly stated the object for which they had assembled.

The Secretary then read the notice concerning the meeting, which was signed by sixty members and which was as follows:

The undersigned members of the Union League Club hereby petition the Executive Committee thereof to call a special meeting of the Club, at the earliest possible date, in order to take some action in regard to the charges recently made, and so far uncontradicted, of a degree of extravagance and corruption of our City authorities, which is without precedent for its extent and shamelessness, which threatens, if continued, to amount to virtual confiscation of the property of tax-payers, which, unless checked and punished, will enable the criminals to control and corrupt national politics to a dangerous degree, and which will strike a deadly blow at the very theory of our democratic institutions.

It was next moved, and carried unanimously, that a committee of five be appointed to draw up resolutions expressing the object of the meeting.

Dr. F. LIEBER then rose and addressed the meeting briefly. He was sure that the members of the Club were unanimous in their approval of the object which had called them together. So much was known concerning the object for which they had assembled that very few words were necessary from him. He desired to propose a preamble and resolutions. He had been called upon to attend that meeting, and he had endeavored to put together the main motives of their action, which action he hoped would not alone be beneficial to the people of the City of New-York at large, but to the whole world. He offered resolutions, which are embodied with those given below.

Mr. BLUNT offered a second series of resolutions for the adoption of the meeting, which were subsequently withdrawn.

A considerable discussion ensued as to the manner of dealing with them, and it was at last unanimously agreed that all the papers be submitted to the Committee to select from them such resolutions as they should deem the most suitable. The Committee consisted of the following five gentlemen: Gen. Van Buren, Jackson S. Schultz, Dr. F. Lieber, Wm. M. Vermilye and Judge J. C. Kirtland.

REMARKS OF MR. WM. A. BOOTH.

While the Committee was deliberating on the best set of resolutions to adopt, the Chairman rose and said: Gentlemen, a member has just informed me that Judge BARRETT, who has taken such a warm interest in the proper management of the affairs of the City, and who has done so much to expose the infamous frauds of the Ring, is in a room below stairs. In a movement of this kind, in which he is so particularly interested, and for the furthering of which he has done so much, it is not proper he should be so near us and not be aware of the subject of our deliberations. The gentleman has suggested to me that it would be agreeable to him, (Judge BARRETT,) perhaps to us, to have him present at our meeting. Is there any objection, gentlemen, to our inviting Ex-Judge BARRETT to be present at our deliberations this evening. [Several voices, "No!"]

It was then moved and unanimously adopted that Ex-Judge BARRETT be invited to attend. A committee, consisting of Mr. JONATHAN STURGES and Gov. WOODFORD, were deputed to go down stairs and request him to come up.

In a few seconds they returned with Judge BARRETT. Cheers loud, long and continued were given for "the defenders of the people's rights." The applause which greeted his entrance only subsided when the Judge took his seat on the platform beside the Chairman.

ADDRESS OF COL. VAN BUREN.

Col. VAN BUREN, as soon as quiet was restored rose and said: Mr. President, on behalf of the citizens we have adopted the preamble of Dr. LIEBER. Perhaps it may not be improper for me to say that in my judgment, the Committee of Seventy have done very well indeed first in the field in this action, and I regret extremely that some action on the part of this Club had not been taken long ago. [Applause.] It is a well-known fact, Sir, that great feeling has been manifested by the members of the Club upon this most important subject, and that long ago a call was made by a large number of members for a meeting to be held for the purpose of expressing the opinion of the Club, and taking decisive action. I regret that this Club, as on former occasions, has not been foremost in taking action in this case. Now, Sir, as it has come to this point, we can only express our views, which we have often expressed heretofore, and desire to show. Mr. BLUNT, who had another series of resolutions for adoption, here requested to be allowed to read them. The request was granted. He then withdrew them, and the question then turned on the adoption of Dr. LIEBER'S original resolutions, and considerable discussion ensued. Dr. LIEBER'S resolutions, as given above, were adopted.

ADDRESS OF MR. SHEARMAN.

Mr. SHEARMAN spoke on the resolutions as follows: In regard to those resolutions, I agree that they are all as they should be. At the same time, when we come to this question of reform—when we come to consider these parties who have committed these rascalities against the City, and have defrauded us out of this large sum of money, how they should be brought to justice, is one question. The next question to be considered is, supposing we desire that that result should be brought about, how in the future can these frauds be prevented? And I wish to suggest upon that point—I do not pretend to be very well posted on it—but I do think that, in the judgment, any party that should control the next Legislature of the State of New-York in the Senate and in the Assembly, they should bring forward a bill by which the office of Chamberlain of the City of New-York should be abolished, or that its emoluments should be reduced. Instead of the amount being a hundred thousand or fifty thousand dollars, for merely nominal services, it should be reduced to twenty thousand or fifteen thousand dollars. That, also, the Sheriff's office, where the emoluments are one hundred and fifty or two or three hundred thousand dollars a year, and if the party in power would reduce that office to a salaried office, of say, fifty thousand dollars a year, and at that remuneration there are plenty of good citizens who would be quite willing to accept of that office, then the citizens of New-York would know exactly what they were paying. I wish to say one other thing, as to the Register of the City of New-York. The emoluments of this office are altogether disproportionate to the services rendered by the incumbent of that office. I say this not as a partisan, not as a Republican, not as a Democrat, but I say it in the interest of the people—reduce every salaried officer down to this standard, that the person who occupies the office would receive the reward, and only the reward, equivalent to the services rendered. When you have introduced this reform, you will lift from the citizens of this City and of this State a large amount of taxation. [Applause.]

REMARKS OF MR. ROOSEVELT.

Mr. ROOSEVELT then made a few remarks. He said they were struggling against a number of traitors who tried to destroy the whole of their City. These were the men he and they desired to have punished, and in order to punish these men they should unite with all the respectable citizens and make a strong effort to crush out the traitors. [Applause.]

ADDRESS OF JUDGE BARRETT.

Ex-Judge BARRETT, who was loudly called upon to address the meeting, came forward and said: I did not know that I had any business at all here this evening, Mr. President and gentlemen. Certainly I have not any business with some of the resolutions I heard offered here this evening. [Laughter.] When I came into this room I expected to see knit brows and serious faces. I expected to see that the members of this important Club were feeling very deeply indeed about the existing state of things, and if I am to say anything it is to say what I feel. It does not seem to me as though you gave the subject that thought and treated it with that gravity which is due to it. I don't feel working, as I am a Democrat, day after day, as though it were a light matter. I feel as though the whole existence of this nation was at stake, [applause,] for if we cannot get in the City of New-York an expression of the popular opinion in a legitimate way at the ballot-box, then republican institutions in this country are at an end. Plainly so. Now, I beg of you, you gentlemen who are of different persuasion from me in matters of politics, but who are just as patriotic as I am, and perhaps, more so—you are native-born, and I am only an adopted child, loving it as sincerely as any native-born citizen does, [applause;] but certainly we expect that you of different persuasion will aid in the good work which we are endeavoring to perform. I, for my part, don't want to hear any more in this contest about Republicans and Democrats. [Applause.] As I said the other night at a public meeting, the first I ever attended of a political character, for I don't like politics and would not go into them if I did not feel the existence of the country was at stake. I stated the other night what we wanted was not a fusion of parties, but a fusion of citizens. [Applause.] Let us try and fuse; let us try and make a square issue with those who are robbers, and unite with those who are opposed to them. Let me say a few practical words. I speak quite unexpectedly; I had no intention you were going to call upon me, and in fact I had no intention of being present here at all. But it occurs to me that you need at the present moment two things—two practical things. All the resolving and all the talking have no effect upon the people who rule us. You need, gentlemen, to do two things: One is to get at some practical way of getting an exposition of the popular feeling and will at the next election. How are you going to do it? As the law now stands the Mayor of this City has the appointment of the inspectors of election on that occasion. Now, if Mayor HALL could be induced in the present grave crists to redeem himself and to redeem those about him at all events, to the extent of giving the people a fair opportunity of expressing their sentiments at the next election, you would have gained a grand point. But it seems to me that if a committee of the best gentlemen here, together with the best gentlemen of other parties, were to wait upon the Mayor and insist upon having a voice in the appointment and nomination of these inspectors, something could be done on the subject. If he could be even induced to leave it to the Committee of Seventy to appoint one election inspector in each polling district something might be done, but as it now stands everybody around him might be sent to the State Prison, and yet any one he wishes or his party wishes can be declared to be elected at the next election if they don't get fifty votes. Something of the kind must be done if we are to put a stop to this kind of thing, or eventually it will result in bloodshed and revolution. Another want is the need of money. You are a wealthy body. Money is very much needed. Why don't you raise money and send it to this Committee of Seventy. [Applause.] You can't do work without money. You can't print a document to read to an elector; you can't print a speech or a ballad; you can't get people to go about the work of the good cause without money. The other side has thirty millions to spend. Can't you raise two or three hundred thousand to do the same work? Raise enough money, hire good and trusted men of your own selection, or the selection of the Committee of Seventy, to stand at the polls and do the other duties which will be necessary. An honest man, in whom you all have confidence, asked me today if we could not raise a sum of money for this good purpose. It is very important. Raise your money as you raise your troops. Don't imagine seventy-five thousand volunteers are going to suppress a revolution. Take all that comes, and if you have too much, which is not likely, when you get through the contest give it to some charity. Don't do as some people advise—commence with hundreds—commence with thousands and raise as much as you can. If you want to put down this state of things you must have money and give up your time, and you must knock down any man who says he has no time to give. [Applause.] Don't talk any more about your business when these evils are to be redressed. [Applause.] What is your business if you have not a country, and as sure as I am speaking to-night if you don't manage to get a fair election in this City of New-York you will have a civil war. You cannot help it. If a Presidential election is held all over the country, and the vote of the State of New-York is to determine the result, and that vote is given fraudulently, do you suppose that the candidates or the people are going to stand it? A great civil war will arise; father will be arrayed against son, and brother against brother, and the horrors of the last decade will be renewed. Give your time and money. Give it, give it, until you get rid of the present condition of affairs at all hazards. There is no better business for any man in the community. [Great applause.]

Mr. ROOSEVELT moved, in accordance with Judge BARRETT'S suggestion, that a committee of seven be appointed to co-operate with the other committees, for the raising of funds, and all the moral persuasion they can use for the purpose of prosecuting the good work.

ADDRESS OF GEN. VAN BUREN.

Gen. VAN BUREN—I should suppose that proposition was contained in the resolutions. With regard to the elections, a single word. They are the most important subject to be considered. It is everything. Everything else is nothing without it. If we can't have fair elections, then this sort of thing will be repeated at the next election. It may be by different men from those you will drive from public place, but I have lived long enough in this City to feel utterly disgusted with the idea. The better class of citizens, the majority of them, every single year leave their duties to be performed by hired laborers. [Applause.] There has not been an election occurred in this City since I have been old enough to know anything about it, but every one was a repetition of the other. And it is with the utmost difficulty that the best men in this City could be brought to the polls and deposit their ballots, much less to guard the purity of election. Has not the public sentiment of this City been sufficiently roused now, Sir, to feel that it becomes the bounden duty of every citizen to vote for himself, and not let any one vote for him? If not, then you may succeed at the next election by hiring men perhaps to guard the ballot-box, but the year subsequent the Philistines will be upon you again, and the same scenes will occur daily as long as this City exists. I say it must be a conscientious duty of every citizen, not his neighbor's duty, not only to vote, but, as these resolutions say, to guard the purity of election, and to prevent these rascalities from destroying the purity and virtue of our institutions. This thing can be done if we will it. And the result has already been shown. These men go down upon their knees, not on account of the proceedings in Court, but because they fear, as a criminal does, this great public sentiment, which crushes all rascality when it once determines upon it. I insist that, while I do not oppose this motion, I do most respectfully hope that each man shall feel it his bounden duty that he himself shall perform his own part, no matter what the Committee shall in the next election. [Applause.]

REMARKS OF GEN. JACKSON.

Gen. JACKSON said: I hope this motion will pass, and I am sorry that it was not much larger, for it is absolutely important that this Club should designate a committee large enough to meet and treat with all organizations which are now existing in this City, and which will sooner or later demonstrate some form of action which is calculated to unite all citizens, irrespective of party. It is well known now, Sir, that the Committee of Seventy and the Council of Political Reform have prepared some plan by which citizens, irrespective of party, and citizens in different organizations, can be treated with for the purpose of uniting all in this momentous struggle the hour of which is already at hand. Now, Sir, it will be necessary, if such a plan is determined upon, if they treat with Republican organizations and with like Democratic organizations, and with the German element, that the Union League Club should have a committee to represent its financial and moral influences. I am speaking now but the fact when I say that the political body to which the gentleman who addressed you (Judge BARRETT) belonged are determined to put men at the polls in every election district in this City, prepared to meet their duties as freemen. Judge LEDWITH at the last election publicly announced to the people that any man who dared to interfere with the purity of the ballot-box should be shot. I don't know that the Bench has ever defined this offense against right of suffrage, but to me it seems greater than any outrage against person or persons as affecting the dearest and most revered principles of liberty. He concluded by expressing a hope for the appointment of a larger committee to remedy this evil.

A motion was made to increase the number to fifteen, and it was carried.

ADDRESS OF REV. DR. THOMPSON.

Rev. Dr. THOMPSON then addressed the meeting. He said: I feel now as if the Club ought to feel very grateful to Judge BARRETT for having recalled us in words at once so delicate and so appropriate and so manly, to the seriousness of the subject which has convened us here to-night. But yet I should very much regret to have that gentleman leave us with the impression that the passing hilarity—jocularity, if you please—which preceded his remarks, indicated a want of a sober appreciation of the great interests involved in this question. Rather, Sir, it seems to me that we were at that moment in the attitude of men who had been summoned to a stern conflict with an insidious foe armed at every hand, and not knowing where to strike. We have taken up the cause in right earnest, partly through the independent energy of Judge BARRETT himself, and partly through the exertions of the Committee of Seventy; but we see the daylight, and we may hollos, for we are out of the woods. And as a great tragedian who stirred our emotions to the point of tears, paused before the consummation of the tragedy, to give vent to human nature itself in the brief respite of perhaps humor, so we might have hesitated for a moment only to rally for the sterner energy to do the work before us. It seems to us that this is pre-eminently a moral question, that which is on trial before the vast community of this nation today, that is on trial in the columns of the London Times, on trial in the face of all Europe, is the moral integrity of the City of New-York. [Applause.] That question will not be settled by any efforts that can terminate with the simple exposure of existing rascalities, or with the overturning of the men who have successfully engineered that rascality to the present moment. The conflict will not be terminated until we shall have determined and have made the world to see that moral integrity is to rule in all the political affairs of this City, [applause,] and, so far as our example is concerned, throughout the country. What has brought us to this most odious pass in which we find ourselves—the most shameless and degraded to which any civilized country has been reduced in recent times. I think the explanation is comparatively easy. I have found, in the study of theology, that men who are most intense in the advocacy of free will, are sometimes the most absurd of fatalists in their every-day practices. In politics, men who are most intense in claiming personal liberty, the absolute rights of men, after all, by some strange incongruity, are manipulated and overcome by any designing despot, who does not oppose their theory, but gets hold of them in their persons and in their purses. And so with the incongruity of the American people as a whole. Almost in the ratio of the intensity of our energy as a people is our indifference to public affairs. We are the sheerest Micawbers in that respect. We say we are going on but something will "turn up." We have no time except for business, we prefer to pay a larger percentage and be swindled, and the volcano opens up under our feet and overturns the fabric of society. We cannot continue to remain indifferent to these things if we expect our institutions to last. As Judge BARRETT said, the further existence of popular liberty is on trial. That is the trial in which we are now concerned. I heard of a gentleman who represents many others—very successful and active class of merchants—a citizen noted for his purity and worth, say in reference to this City of New-York, that it was about the worst place a man could live in. "I do not mean to stay here any longer than until I shall have carried out my business transactions, which have all been carried on here, and then I propose to retire to the country with my children." I was compelled to answer, "Your boys will follow you; as you come from the country to New-York to seek a fortune, your boys will come after you, and they will find, not a New-York as you prepared and left for them by neglecting it. [Applause.] Gentlemen, this is the feeling on the part of our prominent merchants—the feeling of despair—what can we do about it? What has brought about this condition of things? And now we are aroused, it seems to me, and the strength of your resolutions lays in the second one. [The second resolution was here read by the Secretary.] The speaker continued: That's the truth, Sir. It was because there was such a sentiment in reserve, notwithstanding all the seeming unity, that there is a hope of salvation today. I insist that to accomplish any permanent good we must get this thing out of the ruts of party. [Applause.] We must hold up in the convictions of the people, and before the world the great moral question at issue, and resolve to brand rascality by its true name, and with this burning public indignation wherever rascality is found, whether it is put forth for private or personal interests or for the interests of party. Let us determine that wherever it developes itself, no matter how high the station of any man, no matter how high his political antecedents, a departure in any respect from that forward honesty which makes an honorable merchant in this community unworthy of respect by his fellow-citizens, shall be branded with such utter infamy that he shall not dare to hold up his head for recognition and respectability in the community; but he must be put down by the moral integrity of the people, and no amount of condoning or whitewashing shall conceal his rascality, and he must be put down.

The appointment of the Committee of Fifteen to co-operate with the Committee of Seventy, which was suggested by a member, was reserved for future discussion.

The following resolutions were then adopted:

Whereas, The dangers which have always beset Democratic governments of large and wealthy cities are profligate expenditure, fearless corruption, and a disregard of the importance which each honest vote has in a popular Government; and

Whereas, These grave dangers have now befallen our City in a degree and with a rapidity which certainly are not outdone where adventurous monarchs made corruption an object of their very policy;

Whereas, A thorough change of our false City charter has become an urgent necessity; and,

Whereas, The indignant citizens of New-York, most of us among them, have already taken measures in behalf of this great cause, and through the Committee of Seventy, continue with patriotic zeal to elaborate measures tending to a radical reform; and,

Whereas, We are convinced that the following four measures are demanded by the honor of our community, the liberty of our inheritance, and the permanency of our polity, namely: A recasting of our City charter; a total abandonment of all national party distinctions, so far as our Municipal reform and government are concerned, [applause;] a return to strict accountability and to honesty, and a cessation of the iniquitous wastefulness diffused throughout our City Government, as far and as fast as possible, and, lastly, an adequate punishment of the Municipal evil-doers, and a disgorging of their criminally gotten riches, as far as may be;

Resolved, That the startling disclosures that have lately been made of the gross corruption of our present Municipal Government calls upon the Union League Club at this, its earliest practicable opportunity, to express again its well-known sentiments upon such corruptions, and to dedicate itself anew to the work of radical and thorough reform.

Resolved, That we congratulate the people of our City and country on the power of soundness, of that deep popular sentiment which, held in reserve by our countrymen for trying occasions, is ever found on such occasions irresistible in its strength and purity. We hail it as the bulwark of our institutions and the basis of the grand future of our country.

Resolved, That we express our entire confidence in the Committee of the seventy eminent citizens appointed by the people in open assembly, to act for them in ferreting out the crimes and exposing and punishing the criminals who have betrayed the public trusts and robbed the public Treasury: that the integrity, ability and public spirit of the members of that Committee, and the earnest devotion they have exhibited in the work they have undertaken, gives assurance of speedy success, and justifies us in leaving the work in their hands, while the Club hereby tenders to the Committee its aid and assistance in any manner in which it can be made available.

Resolved, That the power of a virtuous public Press has never been more strikingly exemplified than in the rapid and overwhelming destruction brought upon the strongest combinations of wickedness ever known in this country by that noble, intrepid and unwearied newspaper, the NEW-YORK TIMES, and that independent and able journal Harper's Weekly; that the thanks of this Club are due and are hereby tendered to the TIMES and Harper's Weekly for the great and good work they began and are carrying forward in the interests of virtue and good government.

Resolved, That this Club has learned with the liveliest satisfaction of the action of the Controller, by which so good a citizen and so upright a man as ANDREW H. GREEN has been placed in charge of the Financial Department of the City, and that we bespeak for Mr. GREEN the confidence and support of the people until he has brought order out of confusion, and made a full and public exhibit of the true condition of the City's finances.

Resolved, That in view of the disclosures that have been made, and the great interest at stake, the public welfare demands that the purity of the elections in this City be immediately and thoroughly insured, and that as all safeguards against frauds in elections have been torn away by the nefarious Legislature of last Winter, we urge upon the Committee of Seventy not to disband until it has made provision to secure the ballot-boxes against fraud in the coming election, and if no other way can be devised, we express it as the decided conviction of this Club that citizens should attend in force at every election district in the City throughout election day, and see to it that no more foul wrongs are perpetrated by those most despicable of villains who earn their part of the plunder by stuffing the ballot-boxes and making false returns of elections.

Resolved, That as reform has now, as we trust, actively and earnestly commenced, we sincerely hope it may go on until every branch of the Government be examined, revised, and guarded against corruption, until the civil service of the country has been reformed and placed upon the high platform of ability and integrity, and until the betrayal of public trusts and corruption in public office be made as difficult as legal guards can make it.

The meeting then adjourned.

Some of the Missing Vouchers Found.

Taking their clue from the information given to the Controller's office by the TIMES reporter, Mr. CONNOLLY, Judge BARRETT and Judge LEDWITH, with some members of the Committee of Seventy, proceeded to the apartments of HAGERTY, on the top floor of the County Court-house, for the purpose of making an additional inspection of the pile of ashes deposited there. Underneath the rubbish they succeeded in finding large bundles of the stolen vouchers, some almost burned to a crisp, and others only partially charred. These papers were taken in charge by the Committee of Seventy.

Digging in the Right Spot.

From the Journal of Commerce.

One of the first acts of Deputy Controller GREEN (or Controller, he might be called, since he is that in fact) is characteristic of him. He calls for the immediate preparation of a list of officers and clerks in the Finance Department, the date of their appointment, and their salaries, and the precise nature of their duties. Mr. GREEN has here struck ground where the yield of astounding facts will be rich. The public have been kept in ignorance of all the matters which he proposes to unearth, except the names of the men thus pensioned off, and the return that he has ordered will show whether even that barren information hitherto supplied exclusively in the Corporation Manual has been correctly given. The vital point of omission in the City civil list, as printed, is in respect of salaries. The Federal Government is not above telling the people in various publications how the salaries of its employes stand. But nobody can find out the amounts paid for the so-called services of the army of stipendiaries in this City except by overhauling the published proceedings of the Common Council, and inquiring of all the heads of Departments, who will do as they please about answering. The aggregate sum will be found to be enormous—far beyond what is appropriate for the work done and the men who are set to do it, even upon the most liberal construction. The Controller's Department is no worse than some of the others. Salaries of $6,000, $7,500, $10,000 and $15,000 are of frequent occurrence in the City pay-rolls, and, with the exception of the Judges, the District-Attorney and assistants, the heads and chief engineers of the great public works, and the like, where talent is required, are manifestly unearned. After Mr. GREEN has mastered the mysteries of his own office, which he will be quick to do, he will confer a favor on the tax-payers by obtaining and publishing a complete pay-roll of the City and County. This would be entirely proper for him to do, as the man who has a general official supervision over the financial affairs of the Metropolis in all its branches.

AMUSEMENTS.

Herr Wachtel's Representations.

Herr WACHTEL sings in "Il Trovatore," at the Stadt Theatre, this evening. It is assured that Manrico is one of his finest personations and an immense audience may, therefore, be awaited.

KNOX has accomplished a signal artistic triumph in his new styles of hats for the Fall. They are easy, pleasant, comfortable, picturesque and elegant, and are peculiarly adapted, in material and shape, for the demands of the season. They are fitted to withstand vicissitudes of temperature without sacrificing either neatness, beauty or finish. They are, in fact, real barometers, both of season and fashion, and are exactly suited for the intervening period between the heats of Summer and the chills of Winter, and may, indeed, be pronounced the very best hats that even KNOX ever conceived to meet the requirements of the equinox.
